Reform In The Making:

Services Trade Reform: Making Sense Of It Philippa Dee, 2013-09-13 With the Doha Round of multilateral trade negotiations moribund it is time to reconsider the future of trade negotiations as an impetus for reform Services trade is a leading edge behind the border issue so a services perspective offers critical insights into the future of trade negotiations more generally This book traces the author's thinking on how to make sense of services trade reform drawing on her analytical empirical and policy related work on services issues from both academic and government perspectives It covers policy reform policy forums and what it takes politically to achieve reform and offers critical new insights into the future of trade negotiations The book shows policy makers how to approach the economics and politics of services trade reform domestically consistent with relevant special features of services trade It shows analysts the full policy implications of those special features including what they mean and how services reform should be treated in the future in national and international forums In covering such broad territory the book draws together published material that previously has been scattered across place and time including modelling that establishes empirically the special features of services that are relevant
