Landscape Architecture and Environmental Sustainability Joshua Zeunert, 2017-01-12 Winner of the Australian Institute of Landscape Architects AILA National Excellence Award Research and Communication 2017 Winner of the AILA VIC Excellence Award Research and Communication 2017 Highly Commended Communication and Presentation Landscape Institute Awards 2018 Landscape architecture has a pivotal role in ensuring environmental sustainability through design interventions This book takes a broad look at strategies and completed projects to provide the reader with a strong understanding of the sustainability challenges being faced by designers today and potential routes to addressing them The book covers essential concepts of landscape architecture and environmental sustainability including Ecology multifunctional landscapes and sensitive intervention Remediation cleansing and environmental infrastructure Social sustainability design activism and healthy landscapes Food systems productive landscapes and transportation Performance ratings materials and life cycles Through case studies from around the world and interviews with leading landscape architects and practitioners this book invites discussion about possible future scenarios relevant theories and project responses in landscape environmental design With hundreds of color images throughout the book and additional study material in the companion website Joshua Zeunert provides an overview of the multidimensional qualities of landscape sustainability ReEnvisioning the Delta William Eisenstein, 2007 Reimagining Industrial Sites Catherine Heatherington, 2017-12-06 The discourse around derelict former industrial and military sites has grown in recent years This interest is not only theoretical and landscape professionals are taking new approaches to the design and development of these sites This book examines the varied ways in which the histories and qualities of these derelict sites are reimagined in the transformed landscape and considers how such approaches can reveal the dramatic changes that have been wrought on these places over a relatively short time scale It discusses these issues with reference to eleven sites from the UK Germany the USA Australia and China focusing specifically on how designers incorporate evidence of landscape change both cultural and natural There has been little research into how these developed landscapes are perceived by visitors and local residents This book examines how the tangible material traces of pastness are interpreted by the visitor and the impact of the intangible elements hidden traces experiences and memories The book draws together theory in the field and implications for practice in landscape architecture and concludes with an examination of how different approaches to revealing and reimagining change can affect the future management of the site Environmentalism in Landscape Architecture Michel Conan, 2000 The papers presented in this volume range from proposals for new design approaches historical analysis of the relationship between the practice of landscape architecture and environmentalism to the theories of early practitioners of landscape architecture imbued by an environmentalist outlook The issues above are addressed through topics as eclectic as the design of American zoos the establishment of the Tennessee Valley Authority road design and maintenance in Texas and criticism of relationships between the words and works of select landscape architects This volume provides a fresh approach to encounters between environmentalism and landscape architecture by reframing the issues through self reflection instead of strategic debate

Landscape Architecture ,2008 Re-envisioning Landscape/architecture Catherine Spellman,Peter Cook,Christine Boyer,2003 Re envisioning Landscape Architecture suggests that the relationship between landscape and architecture might be imagined over and over again in such a way that each is defined less as a quantifiable object and more as an idea a way of seeing act of making and way of engaging culture and society The essays collected here offer many interpretations and possibilities for this relationship with the common assumption that it should be considered at every negotiation between realms of thought and whenever culture and place are to be incorporated with understanding and meaning The collection is based in a belief that the landscape architecture relationship is at the center of all inspired design therefore in one way or another each essay addresses how this relationship is created nurtured and maintained to ensure the making of integrated design work The Patterns of Architecture Mark Garcia,2009-12-21 This issue explores the creation materialisation and theorisation of some of the world s most significant and spectacularly patterned spaces It investigates how interiors buildings cities and landscapes are patterned through design production and manufacturing use time accident and perception It also brings into focus how contemporary advanced spatial practices and CAD CAM are now pushing patterns to encompass a greater range of structural programmatic aesthetic and material effects and properties Twenty-five Years of Studies in

Landscape Architecture at Dumbarton Oaks Joachim Wolschke-Bulmahn,1996 Design for Ecological Democracy Randolph T. Hester,2006 Over the last fifty years the process of community building has been lost in the process of city building City and suburban design divides us from others in our communities destroys natural habitats and fails to provide a joyful context for our lives In Design for Ecological Democracy Randolph Hester proposes a remedy for our urban anomie He outlines new principles for urban design that will allow us to forge connections with our fellow citizens and our natural environment He demonstrates these principles with abundantly illustrated examples drawn from forty years of design and planning practice showing how we can design cities that are ecologically resilient that enhance community and that give us pleasure Hester argues that it is only by combining the powerful forces of ecology and democracy that the needed revolution in design will take place Democracy bestows freedom ecology creates responsible freedom by explaining our interconnectedness with all creatures Hester s new design principles are founded on three fundamental issues that integrate democracy and ecology enabling form resilient form and impelling form Urban design must enable us to be communities rather than zoning segregated enclaves and to function as informed democracies A simple bench at a centrally located post office for example provides an opportunity for connection and shared experience Cities must be ecologically resilient rather than ecologically imperiled adaptable to the surrounding ecology rather than dependent on technological fixes Resilient form turns increased urban density for example into an advantage And cities should impel us by joy rather than compel us by fear good cities enrich us rather than limit us Design for Ecological Democracy is essential reading for designers planners environmentalists community activists and anyone else who wants to improve a local community Accreditation Review, 2001-06 University of California, Berkeley.
