photographs by the artist and grants insight into his conceptual world through his correspondence In particular the mountain world surrounding Rondane National Park provided Harald Sohlberg 1869 193 5 with inexhaustible inspiration for countless studies and watercolours which were later incorporated into his landscape pictures This volume places one of his most famous works Winter Night in the Mountains in a new context and casts light on less well known aspects of Sohlberg's oeuvre which also includes street scenes for example One characteristic of his works that is particularly attractive is the lack of people in them not least because their traces always appear present This reveals a critical attitude to the modern age and at the same time allows the viewer to become immersed in his or her own stories The Listener, 1948 Art of the Past Mark Clarke, Joyce Townsend, Ad Stijnman, 2005 Examining the art of the past through reconstruction and studies of historic sources The Materials and Technology of Glazed Ceramics from the Deh Luran Plain, Southwestern Iran David V. Hill, 2006 This study examines the factors that govern technological change by focussing on a single industry the production of glazed ceramics in Mesopotamia How does innovation appear in any technological system What brings change to a particular industry Since technological change is socially contextualized we must investigate how innovation appears within a particular technology and how that innovation is replicated and disseminated through social networks Glazed ceramics recovered during the archaeological survey of the Deh Luran Plain located in southwestern Iran here serve as the material basis on which the history of lead based glaze technology is reconstructed This large ceramic assemblage is described in detail and subjected to a full complement of archaeometric techniques combined with historical analysis and independent dating The history of the development of lead based glaze over time is thus examined in light of the von Hippie model of technological innovation and the incorporation of such innovations into productive industry A Permanent Legacy Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, 1989 This volume celebrates one of America's great museums Report of the Department of Antiquities, Cyprus Cyprus.
