

Strategies to combat hooliganism:

Strategy	What is it?	Has it worked/impact?
Early kick offs	To prevent excessive alcohol consumption which may reduce disorderly behaviour	Reduces amount of alcohol that has been consumed compared to later KO's BUT can just mean spectators drink at home which means that excessive consumption occurs earlier in the day which can lead to disorder later in the day
All seater stadiums	Reduces the ability of people to move within a stand and allows better control over ticket distribution, which stops troublemakers congregating together or actually attending matches	Spectators are identifiable by their seat or less likely to cause trouble less movement of fans & congregating reduces trouble BUT Significant cost to clubs who get promoted to higher divisions
Segregation of fans	Traveling to the match and within grounds which means rival fans are kept apart reducing the chance of violence or disorder	This has significantly reduced the amount of disorder within football stadiums but at a significant cost to clubs. Hooligans are moving away from stadiums and looking to cause disorder with rival supporters in town centres / railway stations.
Improved security	Increased levels of policing and stewarding and the introduction of CCTV at stadiums to identify troublemakers. Improved surveillance of known troublemakers who may behave if they know they're being watched	This has significantly reduced the amount of disorder within football stadiums but at a significant cost to clubs. CCTV means fans are identifiable & reduces disorder for fear of being caught/banned
Travel restrictions & banning orders	Prevents known hooligans from attending / traveling to matches by reporting to police stations / handing in passports	This has reduced the number of hooligans traveling / attending matches but costs a lot of money and police time to create a list of known troublemakers, their location and their intentions. Banned troublemakers still risk attending matches as they have to be spotted for their banning order to be enforced
Alcohol restrictions	Alcohol is not allowed to be consumed whilst watching matches in stadiums and many stadiums do not sell alcohol, in an attempt to reduce disorderly behaviour. Police can also apply for pubs close to stadiums to not serve alcohol on match days	Means loss of income for local pubs and many spectators drink elsewhere (home) which means that excessive consumption occurs earlier in the day which can lead to disorder later in the day
