Regional Innovation Strategies The Challenge For Less Favoured Regions:

Regional Innovation Strategies Kevin Morgan, Claire Nauwelaers, 2004-06-02 Regional Innovation Strategies offers the first comprehensive analysis of the new wave of innovation oriented regional policies It draws conclusions from the European Regional Technology Plans and Regional Innovation Strategies both in old industrialised areas and in regions where development is slow and compares this with US and Canadian experiences Anticipating the enlargement of the EU Regional Innovation Strategies also assesses the growing interest in the subject within policy academic and practitioner circles in Central and Eastern European countries This book aims to provide information on the new regional innovation policies and gives the first assessment of this promising pool of regional experiences Regional Innovation Strategies Kevin

Morgan, 1998-03 This text offers a comprehensive analysis of the late 1990s wave of innovation oriented regional policies The text draws conclusions from the Regional Technology and Regional Innovation Strategies in Europe and compares them with US and Canadian experiences Partnerships for Regional Innovation and Development Marta Gancarczyk, Anna

Ujwary-Gil, Manuel González-López, 2021-08-05 This monograph presents the experience in the implementation of smart specialization strategies S3 from multilevel policy governance as well as from the bottom up perspectives of firms clusters and networks in selected European countries The presented research focuses on relevance and feasibility of the S3 adoption emphasizing the importance of linking policy considerations with partnerships at lower governance levels The major contribution of the presented research rests in theoretical implications and practical recommendations relevant for the implementation of regional S3 in the European context with the possibility of place based adoption in other environments The book is also valuable for synthesizing the most recent advancements in smart specialization as a policy concept and the concept of transformation and growth for territorial units and economic entities This book aims to further diffuse and expand the academic community's learning of the new S3 approach in Europe and beyond The book will be of interest and useful to the academic community of researchers and doctoral students focused on regional innovation development and related policy as well as on entrepreneurship networks and clusters Public sector professionals dealing with regional development regional innovation policies and industrial transformation will also benefit from its content Innovation Networks Knut

Koschatzky, Marianne Kulicke, Andrea Zenker, 2012-12-06 Innovation networks are a major source for acquiring new information and knowledge and thus for supporting innovation processes Despite the many theoretical and empirical contributions to the explanation of networks many questions still remain open For example How can networks if they do not emerge by their own be initiated How can fragmentation in innovation systems be overcome And how can networking experience from market economies be transferred to the emerging economies of Central and Eastern Europe By presenting a selection of papers which address innovation networking from theoretical and political viewpoints the book aims at giving answers to these questions Innovation and Social Learning M. Gertler, D. Wolfe, 2002-05-22 How well suited are the institutions of a region nation or international regime to the task of coping with the dramatic changes currently underway in the global economy This volume examines this issue New Regionalism in Australia Mardelene Grobbelaar,2018-01-18 New Regionalism promoted as a new paradigm of development by the OECD suggests that globalization is bringing together new technologies management employees and communities to form new patterns of local governance However despite the growing influence of New Regionalism in regional development policy in the West and increasingly in Australia there has been little debate about the relevance and application of these ideas in Australia Bringing together contributions from academics practitioners and policy makers this book redresses this imbalance by examining the theoretical and empirical foundations of this powerful and growing school of thought locating the debate firmly in the Australian context With an opening chapter by Kevin Morgan Cardiff University who has been at the heart of the New Regionalism debate the book provides important insights into the theory and practice of New Regionalism in this vibrant region Examining the Role of Entrepreneurial Universities in Regional Development Daniel, Ana Dias,Teixeira, Aurora A.C.,Preto, Miguel Torres,2019-09-06 Universities are becoming more entrepreneurial and for local communities and companies this has increased their economic standings tenfold However the competitiveness of developing economies thanks to these financially focused institutions has likewise increased Examining the Role of Entrepreneurial Universities in Regional Development provides emerging research exploring how universities foster and support entrepreneurship and the development of a more entrepreneurial organization and highlights the importance of this process for local communities and companies Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as institutional entrepreneurship public management and economic contribution this book is ideally designed for university presidents provosts rectors chancellors board members managers business professionals policymakers academicians students and researchers Towards the Learning Region Barry Nyhan,Graham Attwell,Ludger Deitmer,European Centre for the Development of Vocational Training,1999 Recoge 1 Regional development and learning in the EU and the US the context 2 Regional case studies Theory and practice 3 Description of regional projects Transformative Mission-Oriented Innovation Policies Jakob Edler,Mireille Matt,Wolfgang Polt,Matthias Weber,2025-05-14 This prescient book offers a unique combination of the conceptualisations of transformative mission oriented science technology and innovation policies including insightful in depth empirical studies covering a wide range of countries to explore how these policies are designed enacted and analysed Knowledge, Innovation and Economic Growth Frans Boekema,2000 The learning region offers a new perspective on the dynamics of change which shape the economy This book examines the transformation of the modern economy into one in which knowledge is the most important resource and learning the most important process for economic growth In the modern economy successful firms as well as governments are those which have control over and access to flows of information and knowledge of technologies markets and organizational and managerial practices In order to examine this the authors apply innovation industrial network and institutional theories to the many factors which together constitute learning regions regional innovation policy geographical clusters of collaborating firms and the role of research centres in the innovative potential of regions They find that the learning region paradigm opens new possibilities for research and policy and use case studies in Germany Holland and Belgium to illustrate these possibilities The authors also examine European Union and regional government policy on innovation and regional development Finally they examine inter firm and intra firm collaboration and regional business and innovation systems This innovative new book will prove invaluable to regional scientists economic geographers and regional planners

National Innovation, Indicators and Policy Louise Earl, Fred Gault, 2006 This book takes stock of what is known about the process of innovation and its effects and the policy interventions that influence both It provides insights into future research required to support evidence based policy making and makes clear the need to take a systems approach to the analysis of innovation its outcomes and its impacts The contributors explore the fact that economic theory statistical measurement and the need to achieve targets are combining to shift policy focus towards the economic and social impacts of innovation This is forcing economists and statisticians to look for new measures indicators and analytical frameworks to support the public policy debate and the implementations of change necessary for success The book emphasizes the importance of linkages and communities of practice in measuring and analyzing innovation and focuses on the importance of social sciences as well as natural sciences to the activity of innovation policy relevant discussions on the measurement gaps in the activity of innovation quantitative results of analysis relating to the output of innovation activities theoretical frameworks and concepts for measurement of the activity of innovation suggestions for new measurement directions for the activity of innovation which will lead into an international forum to discuss indicator development at the OECD over the next decade Illustrating that the expectations of innovation policies are being raised this book will prove fascinating reading for policy analysts economists academics and students with an interest in innovation industrial dynamics and science and technology

Gestalten statt anpassen in Arbeit, Technik und Beruf Martin Fischer, 2001 Environment & Planning, 2009 Regionalism in the Age of Globalism: Forms of regionalism Lothar Hönnighausen, 2005 Hitotsubashi Journal of Social Studies, 2004 Governing Local and Regional Economies Andrew Wood, David Valler, 2004 Over the past decade the study of cities and regions has been marked by an increased concern with institutions and their relationship to economic and political change This institutional turn has been particularly prominent in studies of local and regional economic governance This book brings together internationally renowned authors from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds to take critical stock of the field assess the merits and limits of the institutional turn and examine directions for future work Drawing together a range of theoretical and empirical contributions the book seeks to move forward the debate on institutions and their relationship to local and regional governance The individual chapters examine the theoretical underpinnings of institutionalist work the critical relationship between institutions collaboration and local and regional economic performance as well as questions of local and regional economic governance and its politics

Handbook of Research on Cluster Theory Charlie Karlsson, 2008 Suitable for scientists students policymakers and cluster managers this book provides an overview of agglomeration and cluster theory cluster research methods clustering in different spatial contexts and clustering in service industries

Regional Economies as Knowledge Laboratories Philip N. Cooke, Andrea Piccaluga, 2004 Today the study of regions is central to academic analysis and policy deliberation on how to respond to the rise of the knowledge economy Regional Economies as Knowledge Laboratories illustrates how newer types of regional analysis utilising scientometrics knowledge services measures and university networks and concepts such as knowledge life cycles experimental knowledge creation and knowledge ethics are leading to a perception that regional economies increasingly resemble knowledge laboratories In addition to these measures and concepts the book features case studies and assessments of policies implemented to facilitate regional engagement with the knowledge economy and a critique of knowledge economy as ideology The importance of maintaining a balanced perspective in assessing the depth and reach of the role of knowledge in the market economy is also examined Aiming to contribute to the better understanding of theories and practices associated with knowledge regions this book will appeal to a wide ranging audience including regional and industrial economists innovation scientists academics and practitioners with an interest in knowledge and management organisation regional scientists economic geographers and economic sociologists

Innovation for All? Pedro Conceição, Manuel V. Heitor, 2005-01-30 At the macroeconomic level innovation increasingly means the ability of institutions to cope with uncertainty and change This change can be associated with technological advances but also with modifications to the regulatory framework of an industry shifts in consumer preferences emerging demographic trends or even major alternations of global geopolitics The changes brought about by these conditions ripple throughout an economy affecting national institutions and individual citizens alike Innovation for All considers the case of Portugal from the perspective of innovation theory providing new insights on how knowledge is generated and diffused over time and across space The lessons from Portugal's experience can be applied more broadly to understand the challenges of developing policies that simultaneously promote scientific and technological innovation societal creativity and economic growth
