Rejection Revealed Are You Relationship Challenged:

Young Masculinities and Sexual Health in Southern Africa Deevia Bhana, Morten Skovdal, Kaymarlin Govender, 2025-05-19 This book examines the complex relationships between young masculinities and sexual health within Southern Africa. It considers how socio-cultural and economic factors shape young men's experiences of masculinity and the effects on relationship dynamics, gender norms, and sexual health. Through thematic chapters covering love, pleasure, social norms, risk, and HIV, the book emphasises the global importance of engaging young men in fostering gender equity and promoting healthier sexual practices. Readers will benefit from a diverse range of methodologies and perspectives that highlight the plurality and fluidity of masculinities, challenging monolithic accounts of young men in the region whilst illustrating the global relevance of understanding local contexts in shaping masculinities. The book provides valuable insights for developing effective sexual health interventions that recognise and embrace other masculinities. Sexual health approaches that resonate with the lived realities of young men can potentially enhance young men's engagement and participation in promoting healthier relationships and practices. With important insights for theory, policy, and practice, this book will be of interest to researchers across the fields of critical masculinity studies, sexual and reproductive health, gender studies, and African studies, as well as policymakers, development practitioners, and activists.

Challenging Images Jo Dean, Annette Hastings, 2000 Is area and community regeneration enough to challenge the negative perceptions of a stigmatised housing estate? The authors of this report argue that unless a housing estate's image problems are effectively challenged alongside regeneration, stigma will remain. This report is the first to look for solutions to estates' image problems as a means of ensuring that the improvements made by regeneration processes are concrete and long-lasting. Challenging Images examines three housing estates which have long established problem reputations but which have experienced substantial regeneration. The report provides detailed evidence of the perceptions of estate residents, residents of neighbouring areas, and local stakeholders such as regeneration partners, employers, journalists, and estate agents. It discusses the impact of stigma on life chances identifies key actors responsible for building negative estate images suggests key actors for positively managing images provides good practice suggestions for image management looks at implications for policy and practice argues that image management should be a central component of regeneration packages Challenging images will be of key interest to those involved in regeneration partnerships managers of housing in low demand and students and researchers of urban and housing policy
