Relations Between Defence And Civil Technologies:

The Relations between Defence and Civil Technologies Philip Gummert, Judith Reppy, 2013-03-09 This book arises from a meeting held at Wiston House Sussex UK in September 1987 The meeting brought together academic governmental and industrial experts from eight countries to discuss the increasingly important sUbject of the relations between civil and defence technologies It was primarily funded under the Advanced Research Workshops Programme of NATO s Scientific Affairs Division and was the first science policy workshop funded by the Programme Additional financial support came from the Leverhulme Trust The choice of topic of speakers and finally of papers to be published was entirely ours The conclusions reached were our own and those of the participants They were not in any way guided by NATO nor do they represent NATO policy We speak for all the participants in offering our thanks to the NATO SCientific Affairs Division especially Secretary General Durand and Dr Craig Sinclair for rnei r generosity and encouragement WWithout them this book would not exist We thank the Leverhulme Trust for enabling assistance to be provided to the Workshop Directors in the form of Iain Bate who himself played a major part in the success of the meeting The staff of Wiston House must also be thanked for prOViding an admirable environment for the meeting For secretarial support prior to the meeting we thank Gill Miller and Lesley Price Finally we offer special thanks to Mrs Yvonne Aspinall for converting all the papers in whatever state they were presented into camera ready copy with such professionalism and gOOD humour

The Political Economy of Defense Andrew Ross, 1991-07-30 Beyond the traditional two dimensional analyses of defense economics and defense politics lies a rapidly growing field of research the political economy of defense As the study of the interface between economics politics and defense proliferates this collective volume sets out to identify the nature of political economy of defense inquiry surpassing a narrower focus on the economic consequences of military spending The starting point for this collaborative effort was a series of panel discussions organized by Andrew L Ross in which most of the contributors to this volume participated The majority of chapters were written expressly for this book and have not been previously published These analytical and empirical investigations are intended to illustrate the broad encompassing scope of political economy of defense research and contribute to the development of a research agenda Andrew L Ross has brought together a timely and significant array of inquiry into the impact of defense spending on world politics and global economics This book will be of great interest to political scientists defense specialists and economists studying the military industrial complex International Journal of Technology Management ,1991 New Scientist ,1991 Jane's Defence Weekly ,1992 Arsenal of World War II Paul A. C. Koistinen, 2004 Prolific munitions production keyed America s triumph in World War II but so did the complex economic controls needed to sustain that production Artillery tanks planes ships trucks and weaponry of every kind were constantly demanded by the military and readily supplied by American business While that relationship was remarkably successful in helping the U S win the war it also raised troubling issues about wartime economies that have never been fully resolved Paul

Koistinen's fourth installment of a monumental five volume series on the political economy of American warfare focuses on the mobilization of national resources for a truly global war. Koistinen comprehensively analyzes all relevant aspects of the World War II economy from 1940 through 1945 describing the nation's struggle to establish effective control over industrial supply and military demand and revealing the growing partnership between the corporate community and the armed services. Koistinen traces the evolution of federal agencies mobilizing for war including the National Defense Advisory Commission, the Office of Production Management and the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board and then focuses on the work of the War Production Board from 1942-1945. As the war progressed the WPB and related agencies oversaw the military's supply and procurement systems, stabilized the economy while financing the war, closely monitored labor relations and controlled the shipping and rationing of fuel and food. In chronicling American mobilization, Koistinen reveals how representatives of industry and the armed services expanded upon their growing prewar ties to shape policies for harnessing the economy and how federal agencies were subsequently riven with dissension as New Deal reformers and anti New Deal corporate elements battled for control over mobilization itself. As the armed services emerged as the principal customers of a command economy, the military-industrial nexus consolidated its power and ultimately succeeded in bending the reformers to its will. The product of exhaustive archival research, Arsenal of World War II shows that mobilization meant more than simply harnessing the economy for war; it also involved struggles for power and position among a great many interest groups and ideologies. Nearly two decades in the making, it provides an ambitious and enormously insightful overview of the emergence of the military-industrial economy, one that still resonates today as America continues to wage wars around the globe. Rumsfeld's Wars Dale Roy Herspring, 2008. A highly critical but nonpartisan assessment of the controversial former Defense Secretary as told by one of the leading experts on civil-military relations. Focuses on Rumsfeld's notoriously domineering leadership style, flawed vision for transforming the military and failures in the Iraq War. STI Review, 1995. Official Journal of the European Communities, 1991. Journal of the Association of Engineering Societies Association of Engineering Societies (U.S.), 1886. The Conditions for Success in Technological Innovation Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1971. Civil-military Relations in Sierra Leone Thomas S. Cox, 1976. In this carefully researched study, Cox reexamines the notion of the military as an effective contributor to the process of political modernization in developing countries. Testing theories of civil-military relations against descriptions and analyses of events in Sierra Leone, the author offers explanations that are original and that make this book a model micro study. Nuclear Materials D.B. Rao, 2001. Nuclear materials have civilian utilization too along with military utilization. The dual nature of the utilization of nuclear materials has organised many problems but has also created several opportunities. The developed or developing nations should try to eliminate the danger of nuclear conflicts from human life and to develop nuclear technologies that work for the welfare of the mankind. This book may have an impact on politicians and policy makers.
