Place Art And Self:

Place, Art, and Self Yi-fu Tuan, 2004 What do place art and self have in common To what extent do place and art define who we are In Place Art and Self the renowned humanistic geographer Yi Fu Tuan tackles this large question in a small accessible beautifully illustrated book Through memoir and the insights gained from a peripatetic life as an international scholar Tuan explores the idea of attachment through place and art and the role of attachment in shaping defining and expanding the self Inasmuch as a place contains sources of nurture and identity Tuan writes so too does a painting photograph poem novel motion picture dance or piece of music The arts are likewise emblematic and revelatory The ones I strongly like and dislike expose me make me feel naked before the public eye which is why I am guarded in my confessions Drawing from a lifetime spent thinking and writing about the connection between geography and our spiritual needs Tuan presents a compelling and meditative foray into how place home and homelessness condition us as humans Complementing his essay is a gallery of fine art black and white and color plates by four emerging contemporary photographers whose work accords with Tuan's message

Art, Self and Knowledge Keith Lehrer, 2012 This book argues that a special value of art is the way in which it uses conscious experience the exemplars of aesthetic experience to autonomously reconfigure how we conceive of our world and ourselves ourselves in our world and our world in ourselves Exemplar representation ties art and science mind and body self and world together in a dynamic loop reconfiguring them all as it reconfigures itself

Art and the City Jason Luger, Julie Ren, 2017-05-18 This book presents a global perspective on the political agency of arts in place International and leading scholars and artists themselves present critical theory and practice of contemporary art as a politicised force This book extends thinking on contemporary arts practices in the urban and political context of protest and social resilience and offers the prism of a critical artscape in which to view the urgent interaction of arts and the urban politic

The Aesthetics of Everyday Life Andrew Light, Jonathan Smith, 2005-02-23 The aesthetics of everyday life originally developed by Henri Lefebvre and other modernist theorists is an extension of traditional aesthetics usually confined to works of art It is not limited to the study of humble objects but is rather concerned with all of the undeniably aesthetic experiences that arise when one contemplates objects or performs acts that are outside the traditional realm of aesthetics It is concerned with the nature of the relationship between subject and object One significant aspect of everyday aesthetics is environmental aesthetics whether constructed as a building or manipulated as a landscape Others also discussed in the book include sport weather smell and taste and food
