Allen, 2017-07-19 This book focuses on the highly touristed but surprisingly under researched Lesser Antilles region After offering a brief overview of the region s geologic and tectonic history as well as its basic climatology subsequent chapters then discuss each island s or island set s geomorphology and geology and how the settlement history tourism and hazards have affected their individual landscapes Written by regional experts and replete with up to date information stunning color imagery and beautiful cartography maps it is the only comprehensive scientific evaluation of the Lesser Antilles and serves as the region s definitive reference resource Accessible to non experts and amateur explorers the book includes in depth discussions and reference sections for each island island set Usable as both a textbook and guidebook it offers readers a straightforward yet detailed assessment of an interesting and intriguing but often overlooked and under appreciated locale Space, Time, and Stuff Frank Arntzenius, Cian Seán Dorr, 2012-01-19 Frank Arntzenius presents a series of radical ideas about the structure of space and time and establishes a new metaphysical position which holds that the fundamental structure of the physical world is purely geometrical structure He argues that we should broaden our conceptual horizons and accept that spaces other than spacetime may exist The Right to Have Rights Alison Kesby, 2012-01-12 Writing in the immediate aftermath of the Second

World War the political theorist Hannah Arendt argued that the plight of stateless people in the inter war period pointed to the existence of a right to have rights The right to have rights was the right to citizenship to membership of a political community Since then and especially in recent years theorists have continued to grapple with the meaning of the right to have rights In the context of enduring statelessness mass migration people flows and the contested nature of democratic politics the question of the right to have rights remains of pressing concern for writers and advocates across the disciplines This book provides the first in depth examination of the right to have rights in the context of the international protection of human rights It explores two overarching questions First how do different and competing conceptions of the right to have rights shed light on right bearing in the contemporary context and in particular on concepts and relationships central to the protection of human rights in public international law Secondly given these competing conceptions how is the right to have rights to be understood in the context of public international law In the course of the analysis the author examines the significance and limits of nationality citizenship humanity and politics for right bearing and argues that their complex interrelation points to how the right to have rights might be rearticulated for the purposes of international legal thought and practice

Making Space for Science Jon Agar,Crosbie Smith,2016-01-06 In recent years there has been a growing recognition that a mature analysis of scientific and technological activity requires an understanding of its spatial contexts Without these contexts indeed scientific practice as such is scarcely conceivable Making Space for Science brings together contributors with diverse interests in the history sociology and cultural studies of science and technology since the Renaissance The editors aim to provide a series of studies drawn from the history of science and engineering from sociology and sociology and science from literature and science and from architecture and design history which examine the spatial foundations of the sciences from a number of complementary perspectives Southern California Horticulturist ,1877
