Place Of The Antique In Early Modern Europe:

The Place of the Antique in Early Modern Europe Rowland, Ingrid Drake Rowland, Craig Hanson, David and Alfred Smart Museum of Art, Noriko Matsubara, Mario Pereira, Allie Terry, 1999 A scholar's desk a warlord's castle a pope's altar the mouth of a volcano in the minds of early modern Europeans all evoked memories of ancient times from Egyptian pharaohs to Roman emperors The essays in this catalog explore the influence of antiquity on a broad spectrum of artistic production in Europe from the sixteenth through eighteenth centuries They include investigations of proto scientific imagery Ovidian myth allegorical devices the papal banquet and the growing importance of Greece to understandings of the ancient world Together these essays reveal much about the continual remaking of the antique in the visual culture of Europe Space and Self in Early Modern European Cultures David Warren Sabean, Malina Stefanovska, 2012-01-01 The notion of selfhood conjures up images of self sufficiency integrity introspectiveness and autonomy characteristics typically associated with modernity The seventeenth century marks the crucial transition to a new form of bourgeois selfhood although the concept goes back to the pre modern and early modern period A richly interdisciplinary collection Space and Self integrates perspectives from history history of literature and history of art to link the issue of selfhood to the new and vital literature on space As Space and Self shows there have at all times been multiple paths and alternative possibilities for forming identities marking personhood and experiencing life as a concrete singular individual Positioning self and space as specific and evolving constructs a diverse group of contributors explore how persons become embodied in particular places or inscribed in concrete space Space and Self thus sets the terms for current discussion of these topics and provides new approaches to studying their cultural specificity Cities at War in Early Modern Europe Martha Pollak, 2010-08-09 Martha Pollak offers a pan European richly illustrated study of early modern military urbanism an international style of urban design

The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern European History, 1350-1750 Hamish Scott, 2015-07-23 This Handbook re examines the concept of early modern history in a European and global context The term early modern has been familiar especially in Anglophone scholarship for four decades and is securely established in teaching research and scholarly publishing More recently however the unity implied in the notion has fragmented while the usefulness and even the validity of the term and the historical periodisation which it incorporates have been questioned The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern European History 1350 1750 provides an account of the development of the subject during the past half century but primarily offers an integrated and comprehensive survey of present knowledge together with some suggestions as to how the field is developing It aims both to interrogate the notion of early modernity itself and to survey early modern Europe as an established field of study The overriding aim will be to establish that early modern is not simply a chronological label but possesses a substantive integrity Volume II is devoted to Cultures and Power opening with chapters on philosophy science art and architecture music and the Enlightenment Subsequent sections examine Europe beyond Europe with the transformation of contact with other continents during the first global age and military and political developments notably the expansion of state power

Memory in Early Modern Europe, 1500-1800 Judith Pollmann, 2017-08-04 For early modern Europeans the past was a measure of most things good and bad For that reason it was also hotly contested manipulated and far too important to be left to historians alone Memory in Early Modern Europe offers a lively and accessible introduction to the many ways in which Europeans engaged with the past and practised memory in the three centuries between 1500 and 1800 From childhood memories and local customs to war traumas and peacekeeping it analyses how Europeans tried to control mobilize and reconfigure memories of the past Challenging the long standing view that memory cultures transformed around 1800 it argues for the continued relevance of early modern memory practices in modern societies The Structure of European History: Early modern Europe: 1450-1650 ,1967

Antiquities in Motion Barbara Furlotti, 2019-06-18 An exciting new approach to understand the trade of antiquities in early modern Rome traces the journey of objects from discovery to display Barbara Furlotti presents a dynamic interpretation of the early modern market for antiquities relying on the innovative notion of archaeological finds as mobile items She reconstructs the journey of ancient objects from digging sites to venues where they were sold such as Roman marketplaces and antiquarians storage spaces to sculptors workshops where they were restored and to Italian and other European collections where they arrived after complicated and costly travel over land and sea She shifts the attention away from collectors to peasants with shovels dealers and middlemen and restorers who unearthed cleaned up and repaired or remade objects recuperating the role these actors played in Rome s socioeconomic structure Furlotti also examines the changes in economic value meaning and appearance that antiquities underwent as they moved throughout their journeys and as they reached the locations in which they were displayed Drawing on vast unpublished archival material she offers answers to novel questions How were antiquities excavated How and where were they traded How were laws about the ownership of ancient finds made followed and evaded Bibliographic Guide to Art and Architecture New York Public Library.
