Places Of Interest In Beijing:

Places of Interest in Beijing Qixin Zhu, Zhaohua Yan, 1994      Places of Interest in Beijing Chao-hua Yen, 1984      Peking & Umgebung Alexander Nadler, 2008      The Principles of Geotourism Anze Chen, Yunting Lu, Young C.Y. Ng, 2015-05-07

The book introduces tourism earth science as a new scientific discipline by applying the principles of earth science in the study of natural and human tourism resources. It involves studying the geo scientific characteristics of these tourism resources through surveys, evaluation and aesthetic value assessment. It also discusses about the principles behind geopark establishment and management. It is an important publication providing direction for geopark and tourism developments in China. The book is a tool for geological heritage survey assessment and research. It can also be used to assist planning of geopark, national parks, heritage protection and scientific interpretation. It is a valuable teaching material for teachers and students of geoscience and tourism as well as providing useful guidance for geopark managers and tour guides in their operation. In addition, the book also offers scientific knowledge of the surrounding natural and cultural landscapes to the public and the general visitors.

Atlas of World Heritage, 2005. Take a photographic journey to these fantastic natural and cultural sites of China. Full color photographs and highly detailed maps and background information make this an excellent gift book or reference volume.

Globalization and the Chinese City Fulong Wu, 2006-05-09. Introducing readers to the far reaching global orientation that is now taking place in urban China, an international team of contributors examine the impact of globalization on Chinese cities including the economic, cultural and political impact.

Remaking China's Great Cities Samuel Y. Liang, 2014-07-25. China's rapid urbanization has restructured the great socialist cities Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou into mega cities that embrace global capitalism. This book focuses on the urban transformations of these three cities. Beijing is the nation's political and cultural capital, Shanghai is the economic and financial powerhouse and Guangzhou is the capital of Guangdong Province and the regional center of south China. All are historical cities with rich imperial, colonial and regional heritages and all have been drastically transformed in the last six decades. This book examines the cities' continuous urban legacies since 1949 in relation to state governance, economic reforms and cultural production. By adopting local historical perspectives, it offers more nuanced accounts of the current urban change than the modernization globalization paradigm and conceptualizes the change in the context of the cities' socialist, colonial and imperial legacies. Specifically, Samuel Y. Liang offers an overview of the urban planning and territorial expansion of the great cities since 1949, explores the production and consumption of urban housing, its spatial forms, media representations and socio-political implications and examines the state-led redevelopment of old urban cores and residential neighborhoods and the urban conservation movement. Remaking China's Great Cities will be of great interest to students and scholars working across a range of fields including Chinese studies, Chinese culture and society, urban studies and architecture.

Soviet Space Programs, 1976-80 (with Supplementary Data Through 1983), 1984      The New Space Race:

China vs. USA Erik Seedhouse, 2010-04-06 The world's most populous nation views space as an asset not only from a technological and commercial perspective but also from a political one. The repercussions of this ideology already extend far beyond Washington. China vs the United States explores future Chinese aspirations in space and the implications of a looming space race. Dr Seedhouse provides background information on the fifteen year history of the China National Space Administration and its long list of accomplishments. Sino U S technological and commercial interests in space are discussed including their interest in encouraging a potential space race. The national security objectives of the U S and China are also examined. China's Influence and the Center-periphery Tug of War in Hong Kong, Taiwan and Indo-Pacific Brian C. H. Fong, Jieh-min Wu, Andrew J. Nathan, 2020-12-30 Bringing together a team of cutting edge researchers based in Hong Kong, Taiwan and Indo Pacific countries, this book focuses on the tug of war between China's influence and forces of resistance in Hong Kong, Taiwan and selected countries in its surrounding jurisdictions. China's influence has met growing defiance from citizens in Hong Kong and Taiwan who fear the extinction of their valued local identities. However, the book shows that resistance to China's influence is a global phenomenon varying in motivation and intensity from region to region and country to country depending on the forms of China's influence and the balances of forces in each society. The book also advances a concentric center periphery framework for comparing different forms of extra jurisdictional Chinese influence mechanisms ranging from economic, military and diplomatic influences to united front operations. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of comparative politics, international relations, geopolitics, Chinese politics, Hong Kong, China relations, Taiwan and Asian politics. China's Urban Construction Land Development Tao Liu, 2019-10-16 This book examines the nature and internal dynamics of China's urban construction land (UCL) development, drawing insights from the recently developed theory of regional political ecology. Based on the author's original research, it identifies two different types of UCL development in China: namely top-down formal development in the legal and regulated domain and spontaneous and informal bottom-up development in the semi-legal, poorly regulated gray domain. Presenting a systematic analysis and comparison, it reveals a scale and speed of informal land development no less significant than that of formal land development, although informal land development tends to be scattered, pervasive, difficult to track and largely overlooked in research and policy formation. Contrary to the popular perception of the peasantry as passive victims of land development, this book uncovers an intriguing dynamic in which the peasantry has played an increasingly pro-active role in developing their rural land for urban uses in informal markets. Further based on an investigation of UCL development in Beijing and Shenzhen, it shows an interesting trajectory in which the uneven growth and utilization of UCL are contingent upon the various developmental milieus in different places. China's land institutions, based on an urban-rural dual land system, are not conducive to the ultimate goal of saving and efficiently utilizing land. Accordingly, an urban-rural integrated land market and management system is highly advisable. The theoretical and empirical enquiry presented challenges the perceived notion of China's UCL development as the outcome of market demand and state supply Further it argues for an inclusive treatment of the informality that has characterized urbanization in many developing countries and for a reassessment of the role played by the peasantry in land based urbanization      Directory of Worldwide Space ,1997      China John Summerfield,1990-11-27
