Places We Share:

The Places We Share Susan Ossman, 2007-02-09 While some people study globalization others live their lives as global experiments This book brings together people who do both The authors or subjects of these studies are of diverse national religious and ethnic backgrounds What they have in common is a connection to Morocco It is from this shared space that they draw on personal stories fieldwork and literary and linguistic analysis to provide a critical socially reflexive response to the conceptions of culture identity and mobility that animate debates on migration and cosmopolitanism On the trail of the Bedouin or Europe's new nomads and of Zaccarias Moussaoui Places We Share explores the relationship of mobility to subjectivity and how physically moving can be a way of escaping the stigma of being an immigrant Reading Rushdie listening to Moroccan women converse in the UAE or examining how the experience of serial migration can shape comparative ethnography we become more aware of how moving pushes us up against the limits of global experience These limits must be recognized They can be positively embraced to develop new ways of conceiving of ourselves the world and our connections to others
