Authorship in Early Modern England, 1590-1640 Trevor Cook, 2012 The Birth and Death of the Author Andrew J. Power, 2020-07-09 The Birth and Death of the Author is a work about the changing nature of authorship as a concept In eight specialist interventions by a diverse group of the finest international scholars it tells a history of print authorship in a set of author case studies from the fifteenth to the twenty first century The introduction surveys the prehistory of print authorship and sets the historical and theoretical framework that opens the discussion for the seven succeeding chapters Engaging particularly with the history of the materials and technology of authorship it places this in conversation with the critical history of the author up to and beyond the crisis of Barthes Death of the Author As a multi authored history of authorship itself each subsequent chapter takes a single author or work from every century since the advent of print and focuses in on the relationship between the author and the reader Thus they explore the complexities of the concept of authorship in the works of Thomas Hoccleve and John Lydgate Andrew Galloway Cornell University William Shakespeare and Christopher Marlowe Rory Loughnane University of Kent John Taylor the Water Poet Edel Semple University College Cork Samuel Richardson Natasha Simonova University of Oxford Herman Melville and his reluctant scrivener Bartleby William E Engel Sewanee The University of the South James Joyce Brad Tuggle University of Alabama and Grant Morrison Darragh Greene University College Dublin

Playwrights and Plagiarists in Early Modern England Laura Jean Rosenthal, 1996 Passage of the first copyright law in 1710 marked a radical change in the perception of authorship According to Laura J Rosenthal the new construction of the author as the owner of literary property bore different consequences for women than for men for amateurs than for professionals and for playwrights than for other authors Rosenthal explores distinctions between legitimate and illegitimate forms of literary appropriation in drama from 1650 to 1730 In considering the alleged plagiarists Margaret Cavendish the Duchess of Newcastle Aphra Behn John Dryden Colley Cibber and Susanna Centlivre Rosenthal maintains that accusations had less to do with the degree of repetition in texts than with the gender of the authors and the cultural location of the plays Questions of literary property then became not just legal matters but part of a discourse aimed at conferring or withholding cultural authority Struggles over literary property must be seen in the context of competing conceptions of property in general Rosenthal asserts and she shows how both Filmerian and Lockean models gender the position of the owner Drawing on feminist theory and from scholarship in history philosophy and political science Rosenthal debates the relationship between women and property in modern England Gender and class she contends continue to influence judgments as to what stories a playwright can own or use as to whom critics praise as heirs to Shakespeare and Jonson and as to whom they damn as plagiarists

Publishing Research in English as an Additional Language Margaret Cargill, Sally Burgess, 2017-07-13 Many universities worldwide now require established and novice scholars as well as PhD students to publish in English in international journals This growing trend gives rise to multiple interrelated questions which this volume seeks to address through the perspectives of a group of researchers and practitioners who met in Coimbra Portugal in 2015 for the PRISEAL and MET conferences The volume offers truly global coverage with chapters focusing on vastly different geo social areas and disciplines from the humanities to the hard sciences It will be of interest to applied linguists particularly those working in the area of English for Research Publication Purposes and to language professionals working in research writing support research supervision and academic publishing as well as to journal editors and managers
