Memory, the City and the Legacy of World War II in East Central Europe Uilleam

Blacker,2019-06-27 After the Second World War millions of people across Eastern Europe displaced as a result of wartime destruction deportations and redrawing of state boundaries found themselves living in cities that were filled with the traces of the foreign cultures of the former inhabitants In the immediate post war period these traces were not acknowledged the new inhabitants going along with official policies of oblivion the national narratives of new post war regimes and the memorializing of the victors In time however and increasingly over recent decades the former other pasts have been embraced and taken on board as part of local cultural memory This book explores this interesting and increasingly important phenomenon It examines official ideologies popular memory literature film memorialization and tourism to show how other pasts are being incorporated into local cultural memory It relates these developments to cultural theory and argues that the relationship between urban space cultural memory and identity in Eastern Europe is increasingly becoming a question not only of cultural politics but also of consumption and choice alongside a tendency towards the cosmopolitanization of memory
