Pioneer in Modern Medicine Joseph Charles Aub, Ruth K. Hapgood, 1970 Dean of the Harvard Medical School and School of Public Health in the 1920 s and 30 s David Edsall was one of the leaders in a period of great change and progress in medicine At the beginning of Edsall s career a doctor s chief weapons were his informed mind and trained senses By the end of it the permanent alliance of the sciences and medicine had profoundly altered the doctor s practice and his education It was a time of struggle of conflict and of enduring accomplishment Edsall was at the center of this revolutionary effort in three leading schools of medicine the University of Pennsylvania Washington University in St Louis and Harvard He began his career in Pennsylvania as recording clerk to the famous Dr William Pepper Jr at the same time making scientific contributions in metabolism through his work in the Pepper Laboratory of Clinical Medicine By 1907 he had become Professor of Therapeutics and Pharmacology In 1910 and 11 for one stormy year he was the school s Professor of Medicine This was a key year in 1910 the publication of Abraham Flexner s Medical Education in the United States and Canada had led to the eradication of one quarter of U S medical schools and radical reform of many others From Pennsylvania Edsall went to St Louis as Professor of Preventive Medicine and his part in the reform of that medical school is both controversial and fascinating Edsall s appointment in 1912 to a double post at Harvard and the Massachusetts General Hospital brought him to Boston the field of his major contributions This remarkable period was the day of such people as Harvard s Walter Cannon Otto Folin Harvey Cushing Alice Hamilton L J Henderson It saw the founding of the School of Public Health the major endowment of the Medical School In his ten years at the hospital and his seventeen years as dean as in his influence as a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation Edsall gave direction to many developments in American medicine which bear his mark to this day

American Medical Schools and the Practice of Medicine William G. Rothstein, 1987-10-29 In this extensively researched history of medical schools William Rothstein a leading historian of American medicine traces the formation of the medical school from its origin as a source of medical lectures to its current status as a center of undergraduate and graduate medical education biomedical research and specialized patient care Using a variety of historical and sociological techniques Rothstein accurately describes methods of medical education from one generation of doctors to the next illustrating the changing career paths in medicine At the same time this study considers medical schools within the context of the state of medical practice institutions of medical care and general higher education The most complete and thorough general history of medical education in the United States ever written this work focuses both on the historical development of medical schools and their current status National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1971 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Pioneer in Modern Medicine Joseph Charles Aub, Ruth K. Hapgood, 1970 Dean of the Harvard Medical School and School of Public Health in the 1920 s and 30 s David Edsall was one of the leaders in a period of great change and progress in medicine At the beginning of Edsall s career a doctor's chief weapons were his informed mind and trained senses. By the end of it the permanent alliance of the sciences and medicine had profoundly altered the doctor's practice and his education. It was a time of struggle of conflict and of enduring accomplishment. Edsall was at the center of this revolutionary effort in three leading schools of medicine: the University of Pennsylvania, Washington University in St. Louis, and Harvard. He began his career in Pennsylvania as recording clerk to the famous Dr. William Pepper Jr. at the same time making scientific contributions in metabolism through his work in the Pepper Laboratory of Clinical Medicine. By 1907 he had become Professor of Therapeutics and Pharmacology. In 1910 and 11 for one stormy year he was the school's Professor of Medicine. This was a key year in 1910 the publication of Abraham Flexner's Medical Education in the United States and Canada had led to the eradication of one quarter of U.S. medical schools and radical reform of many others. From Pennsylvania Edsall went to St. Louis as Professor of Preventive Medicine and his part in the reform of that medical school is both controversial and fascinating. Edsall's appointment in 1912 to a double post at Harvard and the Massachusetts General Hospital brought him to Boston, the field of his major contributions. This remarkable period was the day of such people as Harvard's Walter Cannon, Otto Folin, Harvey Cushing, Alice Hamilton, L.J. Henderson. It saw the founding of the School of Public Health, the major endowment of the Medical School. In his ten years at the hospital and his seventeen years as dean, as in his influence as a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation, Edsall gave direction to many developments in American medicine which bear his mark to this day.

Creating Environmental and Occupational Health Derek R. Smith, 2011-06-27 Occupational hazards have plagued human civilisation since time immemorial and much of the progress in making workplaces safer is reflected by academic periodicals.

Brush with Death Christian Warren, 2000 Winner of the Arthur Viseltear Award for Outstanding Book in the History of Public Health from the American Public Health Association. Selected by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title. During the twentieth century lead poisoning killed thousands of workers and children in the United States. Thousands who survived lead poisoning were left physically crippled or were robbed of mental faculties and years of life. In Brush with Death social historian Christian Warren offers the first comprehensive history of lead poisoning in the United States. Focusing on lead paint and leaded gasoline, Warren distinguishes three primary modes of exposure: occupational, pediatric, and environmental. This threefold perspective permits a nuanced exploration of the regulatory mechanisms, medical technologies, and epidemiological tools that arose in response to lead poisoning. Today many children undergo aggressive chelating treatments when their blood lead levels are well below the average blood lead levels found in urban children in the 1950s. Warren links the repeated redefinition of lead poisoning to changing attitudes toward health, safety, and risk. The same changes that transformed the social construction of lead poisoning also transformed medicine and health care, giving rise to modern environmentalism and fundamentally altered jurisprudence.
