Caspar Wistar Joseph Leidy Simon Flexner Isador Ravdin and Britton Chance      Brush with Death Christian Warren, 2000
 Winner of the Arthur Viseltar Award for Outstanding Book in the History of Public Health from the American Public Health Association
 Selected by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title
 During the twentieth century lead poisoning killed thousands of workers and children in the United States
 Thousands who survived lead poisoning were left physically crippled or were robbed of mental faculties and years of life
 In Brush with Death social historian Christian Warren offers the first comprehensive history of lead poisoning in the United States Focusing on lead paint and leaded gasoline Warren distinguishes three primary modes of exposure occupational pediatric and environmental
 This threefold perspective permits a nuanced exploration of the regulatory mechanisms medical technologies and epidemiological tools that arose in response to lead poisoning
 Today many children undergo aggressive chelating treatments when their blood lead levels are well below the average blood lead levels found in urban children in the 1950s
 Warren links the repeated redefinition of lead poisoning to changing attitudes toward health safety and risk
 The same changes that transformed the social construction of lead poisoning also transformed medicine and health care giving rise to modern environmentalism and fundamentally altered jurisprudence

 At the crossroads where medicine and science met business labor and the state industrial hygiene became a crucible for molding midcentury notions of corporate interest and professional disinterest as well as environmental concepts of the normal and the natural
 The evolution of industrial hygiene illuminates how powerfully battles over knowledge and objectivity could reverberate in American society new ways of establishing cause and effect begat new predicaments in medicine law economics politics and ethics even as they enhanced the potential for environmental control
 From the 1910s through the 1930s as Sellers shows industrial hygiene investigators fashioned a professional culture that gained the confidence of corporations unions and a broader public
 As the hygienists moved beyond the workplace this microenvironment prefigured their understanding of the environment at large Transforming themselves into linchpins of science based production and modern consumerism they also laid the groundwork for many controversies to come
