Place Matters Gendered Geography In Victorian Womens Travels About Southeast Asia:

Place Matters Susan Morgan, 1996 Susan Morgan's study of materials and regions previously neglected in contemporary postcolonial studies begins with the transforming premise that place matters. Concepts derived from writings about one area of the world cannot simply be transposed to another area in some sort of global theoretical move. Moreover, place in the discourse of Victorian imperialism is a matter of gendered as well as geographic terms. Taking up works by Anna Forbes and Marianne North on the Malay Archipelago by Margaret Brooke and Harriette McDougall on Sarawak by Isabella Bird and Emily Innes on British Malaya by Anna Leonowens on Siam, Morgan also makes extensive use of theorists whose work on imperialism in Southeast Asia is unfamiliar to most American academics. This vivid examination of a different region and different writings emphasizes that in Victorian literature there was no monolithic imperialist location, authorial or geographic. The very notion of a colony or an imperial presence in Southeast Asia is problematic. Morgan is concerned with marking the intersections of particular Victorian imperial histories and constructions of subjectivity. She argues that specific places in Southeast Asia have distinctive and differing masculine imperial rhetorics. It is within these specific rhetorical contexts that women's writings, including their moments of critique, can be read.

An Anthology of Women's Travel Writings Shirley Foster, Sara Mills, 2002 This anthology aims to challenge stereotypes of women travellers. Rather than simply presenting writings by Victorian women who travelled bravely around the world, disregarding social convention and danger, the editors present a range of writing and possible ways of being a woman traveller. As well as the eccentric woman traveller, the editors have included writings by those who might be seen as failed travellers, cautious and conventional travellers, and those who did not conform to the adventurous heroine stereotype. Because travelling as a woman and writing as a woman presents the author with a number of textual problems which must be negotiated, Foster and Mills have chosen to include writings which confronted these problems and which resolved them or did not resolve them in different ways. These textual problems include the depiction of other women, the representation of spatial relations, the negotiations undertaken in relation to the adventure heroine narrative and character, and the position taken by the author in relation to the representation of knowledge. These issues are all crucial in relation to travel writing by women, and the women whose writing has been collected together in this anthology have made bold decisions in relation to them.

Gender im Gepäck Mirja Riggert, 2025-11-21 Reiseliteratur erfährt im digitalen Zeitalter eine neue gesellschaftliche Relevanz. Gibt es doch eine Vielzahl an Blogs, Vlogs oder Instagram Posts zum Thema Reise. Besonders hervor treten dabei weiblich markierte Erzählungen, die vom Alleinreisen als Frauenkinden und in ihrer Prominenz eine eigenständige Subsparte als solo female travel blogs begründen. Die Arbeit nimmt das Phänomen Reiseblog zentral in den Blick und geht der Frage nach, wie drei bisher kaum zusammengebrachte Diskursfelder: autobiografische Reiseerzählung, weibliche Identität und mediales Format wechselseitig aufeinander einwirken und welche Rolle dabei historische Gattungen und Medienkontexte der deutsch und englischsprachigen Reiseliteratur spielen Denn Gattungsvorläufer wie das Tagebuch sind im Reiseblog ebenso präsent wie Topoi des Normbruchs und der Emanzipation Vor dem literarhistorischen Hintergrund des erschwerten Alleinreisens und Publizierens als Frau machen Reiseblogs somit neue Formen von Narration Mobilität und Selbstbehauptung sichtbar Die Studie zeichnet nach inwiefern dies oftmals unter Anpassungsleistungen an eine neoliberale Medienlogik geschieht welche das genuin literarische Interesse an Reisedarstellungen in den Hintergrund treten lässt

The Site of the Convent of the Holy Infant Jesus in Singapore Sandra Hudd, 2016-06-17 The Site of the Convent of the Holy Infant Jesus in Singapore Entwined Histories of a Colonial Convent and a Nation 1854-2015 explores key issues and developments in colonial and postcolonial Singapore by examining one particular site in central Singapore the former Convent of the Holy Infant Jesus established in 1854 and now a food and entertainment complex The Convent was an early provider of social services and girls education almost a mini city within walls including a thriving community of schools an orphanage and a women's refuge World War II and the Japanese occupation followed by the creation of the new Republic of Singapore presented a new set of challenges but it was the convent's size and prime location that made it attractive for urban redevelopment in the 1980s and led to government acquisition demolition of some buildings and the remainder put out to private tender The chapel and the former nuns residence are classified as National Monuments but in line with government policy of adaptive reuse of heritage sites the complex now contains bars and restaurants and the deconsecrated chapel is used for wedding receptions and events Tracking the physical and usage changes of the site this book works to make sense of that eventful journey a paradoxical journey that moves only in time not in space and includes abandoned babies French nuns Japanese bombings and twenty first century dance parties In a society that has undergone massive change economically and socially and above all transitioned from a small colonial enterprise to a wealthy independent city state those physical changes and differing usages of the Convent site over the years track the changes in the nation The wider ongoing tensions between heritage conservation and the modern global city are explored by examining what has been chosen for preservation the quintessentially Singaporean hybridity of the commercial reuse of historic buildings as well as the nostalgia for what has been lost

Handbook of British Travel Writing Barbara Schaff, 2020-09-07 This handbook offers a systematic exploration of current key topics in travel writing studies It addresses the history impact and unique discursive variety of British travel writing by covering some of the most celebrated and canonical authors of the genre as well as lesser known ones in more than thirty close reading chapters Combining theoretically informed astute literary criticism of single texts with the analysis of the circumstances of their production and reception these chapters offer excellent possibilities for understanding the complexity and cultural relevance of British travel writing

Balce-Cortes,2002 After 1898 Puerto Rico and the Philippine Islands became colonial territories of the United States and this moment signaled a new but also familiar chapter in the history of the American nation. The dissertation argues that after 1898 a new American Other was introduced in the American popular imagination: the Filipino native as colonial Other. At the turn of the twentieth century the annexation of the Philippine Islands was the generative moment in the construction of racial and gendered discourses about the Filipino. These discourses represented the Filipino as a savage and as a small black boy thereby recalling the racial idioms of earlier stereotypes of American Indians and African Americans from the nineteenth century. This moment of Empire was both the continuation and the rupture of earlier racialized and gendered grammars that constructed images of the American nation's domestic Others in the nineteenth century discourses on red savagery and black inferiority. The study focuses on the material culture of the U.S. Empire by examining two theoretical issues. First, that the U.S. Empire was practiced by and through violence and racialization that resulted in the construction of the Filipino native's black body: a body that was imagined as both savage and docile. The second theoretical idea explores the tropes of Filipino savagery and docility as key constructs of American imperial discourse and as literary devices appropriated by American and Filipino American writers. My study of the American Empire focuses on images of the Filipino in American imperial texts from the moment of Empire mainstream and Negro newspapers, editorial cartoons, photographs, and travel writing by white women who lived in the Philippines. The language of Empire includes literature by Filipino American writers who contest and appropriate the image of the Filipino savage in their novels. The Introduction begins with a genealogy of the idea of an American Empire and a discussion of postcolonial theory and the language of Empire. Chapter One is a discussion of archival photographs as indexes and icons of Empire. The second chapter focuses on lynching and Empire as tropes of American writing. The chapter analyzes mainstream and Negro newspapers from the period of the Philippine American War. Chapter Three discusses travel writing by Anglo or white women who lived in the Philippines during the first decade of U.S. rule. These are Helen Wilson's A Massachusetts Woman in the Philippines (1903), Emily Bronson Conger's An Ohio Woman in the Philippines (1904), and Mrs. Campbell Dauncey's An Englishwoman in the Philippines (1906). In Chapter Four we examine tropes of history in Filipino American fiction. The novels analyzed are Ninotchka Rosca's State of War (1989), Jessica Hagedorn's Dogeaters (1990), and Carlos Bulosan's The Cry and the Dedication (1995). The dissertation ends with an Afterword that discusses new meanings of Empire in the twenty-first century and how Filipino Americans engage with the legacies of the U.S. Empire.

British Travel Writers, 1940-1997 Barbara Brothers, Julia Marie Gergits, 1999. Essays on British travel writers explores the political and social changes that occurred after World War II. Technology such as color television, home video, the Internet, and CD-ROMs brought people pictures from around the world, broadened their interest in travel. Includes discussion of the various types of travel literature, including political, scientific, historical, and adventurous, as well as the role of women travel writers.
