Service Learning In Technical And Professional Communication:

Service-learning in Technical and Professional Communication Melody A. Bowdon, J. Blake Scott, 2003 Grounded in the practices of ethical deliberation and civic action this text creates a resource for helping technical and professional communication students and teachers implement service learning projects in campus and larger communities Designed for a wide ranging audience Service Learning in Technical and Professional Communication address both advanced and beginning students and both veteran service learning teachers and those trying it for the first time The text begins with three chapters that define and explain the authors approach to service learning and develop a rhetorical toolbox for implementing this approach The remainder of the book is loosely organized around the process of developing executing and evaluating service learning projects These process chapters teach rhetorical strategies ethical concerns genre conventions and style principles in an integrated contextualized way Discussions of rhetoric and ethics are supplemented with heuristics for analyzing the larger cultural effects of service learning projects Resources in Education ,2001 Rewriting Partnerships Rachael W. Shah, 2020-05-15 Winner of the IARSLCE 2021 Publication of the Year Award and the Coalition for Community Writing Outstanding Book Award Community members are rarely tapped for their insights on engaged teaching and research but without these perspectives it is difficult to create ethical and effective practices Rewriting Partnerships calls for a radical reorientation to the knowledges of community partners Emphasizing the voices of community members themselves the adult literacy learners secondary students and youth activists who work with college students the book introduces Critical Community Based Epistemologies a deeply practical approach to knowledge construction that centers the perspectives of marginalized participants Drawing on interviews with over eighty community members Rewriting Partnerships features community knowledges in three common types of community engaged learning youth working with college students in a writing exchange program nonprofit staff who serve as clients for student projects and community members who work with graduate students Interviewees from each type of partnership offer practical strategies for creating more ethical collaborations including how programs are built how projects are introduced to partners and how graduate students are educated The book also explores three approaches to partnership design that create space for community voices at the structural level advisory boards participatory evaluation and community grading Immediately applicable to teachers researchers community partners and administrators involved in community engagement Rewriting Partnerships offers concrete strategies for creating more community responsive partnerships at the classroom level as well as at the level of program and research design But most provocatively the book challenges common assumptions about who can create knowledge about community based learning demonstrating that community partners have the potential to contribute significantly to community engagement scholarship and program decision making Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments ,2008-01-01 Faculty administrators and others in higher education face growing pressures to position their institutions programs and courses in global markets and to prepare students for global work and citizenship These pressures raise urgent questions What might higher education look like in a globally networked world Do traditional industrial models of learning suffice or what new visions for learning are emerging What does it take to implement and maintain these visions To address these questions Designing Globally Networked Learning Environments brings together 25 educators from four continents who share their richly diverse visions for teaching and learning in a globally networked world What unites these visions is that they break with traditional models of repackaging traditional institutionally bounded courses for online delivery in global markets Instead these educators build robust partnerships to design globally networked learning environments that connect students with peers instructors and communities across traditional institutional national and other boundaries to facilitate the kind of cross boundary knowledge making that students as professionals and citizens will need to participate in the shaping of an emerging global order and to address the most pressing global problems we face The book offers these visions as opportunities for faculty program directors administrators international program experts instructional designers faculty development experts and others in higher education to work together to deliberate develop and shape inspiring visions for globally networked learning and to become active participants in the globalization of higher education

Teaching User Experience Heather Turner, Emma Rose, 2025-10-27 Outlining a process approach this book offers a theoretical and pedagogical framework for how to teach user experience UX from a technical and professional communication TPC perspective Recognizing that pedagogy is local to an institution context and community the collection includes teaching cases and stories that demonstrate how instructors in TPC uniquely approach the complexity of teaching UX This book introduces a six stage process empathize define design evaluate iterate and implement that instructors can adapt to their own classrooms It includes case studies that showcase innovative teaching using the six stage process such as creating accessible products for community partners with disabilities and culturally responsive content using Indigenous research methods This book incorporates Black and Indigenous design perspectives bridging theory and practice to prepare students for ethical design work This book will appeal to instructors teaching UX within TPC programs and administrators interested in curricular innovation to bring more UX into their programs The collection can also be used for postgraduate pedagogy courses offered within TPC programs
