Setting Europe Ablaze Douglas Dodds-Parker,1984

Operation Jedburgh Colin Beavan,2007-04-24

A thrilling account of one of the most important covert operations of World War II In 1943 less than a year before D Day nearly three hundred American British and French soldiers shadow warriors parachuted deep behind enemy lines in France as part of the covert Operation Jedburgh Working with the beleaguered French Resistance the Jeds launched a stunningly effective guerrilla campaign against the Germans in preparation for the Normandy invasion Colin Beavan whose grandfather helped direct Operation Jedburgh for the Office of Strategic Services draws on scores of interviews with the surviving Jeds and their families to tell the thrilling story of the rowdy daredevils who carried out America s first specialforces missions forever changing the way Americans wage war

Secret and Special Will Davies,2021-03-02 Soon after the declaration of war on Japan a secret military reconnaissance unit was established based on the British Special Operations Executive known as SOE and called the Inter allied Services Department The unit was tasked with the role to obtain and report information of the enemy weaken the enemy by sabotage and destruction of morale and to lend aid and assistance to local efforts to the same end in enemy occupied territories In 1943 it became known under the cover name Special Reconnaissance Department SRD and included some British officers who had escaped from Singapore After arriving in Australia they assembled in Melbourne forming the nucleus of ISD and together with some Australians established what became the Z Special Unit Training began in a number of locations around Australia including on Fraser Island off the Queensland coast In Broken Bay near Sydney at Careening Bay in Western Australia at the House on the Hill in Cairns and at East Arm near Darwin From these training areas and bases Z Special undertook intelligence gathering and raiding missions throughout Southeast Asia including New Guinea Singapore Timor Malaya Borneo Vietnam and the Dutch East Indies The first operation was Jaywick in September 1943 Led by a 28 year old officer from the Gordon Highlanders Captain Ivan Lyon Using an old Japanese fishing boat renamed Krait this captured vessel was re fitted and provisioned for a voyage from Australia to just south of Singapore where it released six commandos in three folding kayaks to attack Japanese shipping in the harbour They placed limpet mines on several Japanese ships sinking 40 000 tons of shipping After the successful attack they paddled south were picked up by the Krait and successfully returned to Australia This was followed by Operation Rimau again led by Lyon but this time things went very wrong very early Identified they made a fighting withdrawal but all of the raiding party were shot or captured with the last ten being executed just before the end of the war Important in Z Special operations were a number of vessels designated snake boats Four 66 modified trawlers were constructed as well as a range of Asian vessels that allowed their operation in South East Asian areas of operation One Z Special the last in PNG set out on the night of the 11 April 1945 Eight operatives were landed on the Japanese held island of Muschu about five kilometres off the coast near Wewak to determine the status of two 140mm Japanese naval guns that had been placed there These guns would prove dangerous to planned naval landings at Wewak and allied command needed to know if these were operational The operatives were launched in four double folding kayaks from a HTML fast crash boat but the current carried them away from their landing position and the surf capsized their boats The men swam ashore but both their radio and their signal torches had been destroyed and the men had no way of connecting with the return crash boat Soon their lost equipment was found by the Japanese and a massive search with 1 000 troops scoured the island Quite soon seven of the eight men had been captured killed or died trying to swim to the mainland and only one man Sergeant Mick Dennis remained Over the next three days he continued a one man war fighting off Japanese patrols and living off the land Unable to do this for long he took to the dangerous shark and crocodile infested waters and with the aid of a log paddled to the mainland Landing on a Japanese controlled beach he snuck ashore and after further firefights and a difficult journey travelling west he finally was found by an Australian patrol Mick Dennis was able to provide valuable information and for his service and bravery was awarded a Military Medal During the course of the war Z Special Unit carried out 81 covert operations in the Southwest Pacific theatre While the unit was disbanded after the end of the war many of its techniques would be modified and used by Australian Special Forces to this day

From SOE Hero to Dressing the Queen Lynda Rowland, 2023-12-30 The biography of one of Britain's foremost fashion designers who led a fascinating double life as a couturier and an intelligence officer during the Second World War Sir Hardy Amies was one of Britain's foremost fashion designers who led a fascinating double life as a couturier and an intelligence officer during the Second World War Sir Hardy's work for the Belgian resistance effort as part of the Special Operations Executive was so significant that he was awarded l Ordre de la Couronne or Order of the Crown by the Belgian Government in 1948 Not only did Sir Hardy conduct these operations but he also simultaneously developed his burgeoning fashion business through the British Board of Trade's drive to promote UK manufacturing throughout the conflict He was a man who at once epitomized and challenged the reality of being gay in an era when society was deeply unaccepting He was thrust into what was an overtly macho and potentially hostile environment and against that backdrop made a valuable and courageous contribution to the war effort Born into what we would consider a lower middle class family he was handsome cultured and gregarious and effortlessly traversed the post war world of high society launching his haute couture house to great acclaim gaining clients ranging from film stars to royalty His work for Queen Elizabeth II saw him awarded the CVO in 1977 and this was elevated to the KCVO Knight Commander of the Victorian Order in 1989 Her Majesty's warmth of feeling towards Sir Hardy is evident in the many hand written thank you letters she sent him over the course of their long working relationship Sir Hardy who lived until the age of 93 could have been dismissed as a lightweight character from the frivolous
