critic whom A N Wilson has called probably the best writer alive in verse or in prose In his criticism Hill ranges widely investigating both poets including Jonson Dryden Hopkins Whitman Eliot and Yeats and prose writers such as Tyndale Clarendon Hobbes Burton Emerson and F H Bradley He is also steeped in the historical context political poetic and religious of the writers he studies Most importantly he brings texts and contexts into new and telling relations neither reducing texts to the circumstances of their utterance nor imagining that they can float free of them A number of the essays have already established themselves as essential reading on particular subjects such as his analysis of Vaughan s The Night his discussion of Gurney s poetry and his critical account of The Oxford English Dictionary Others confront the problems of language and the nature of value directly as in Our Word is Our Bond Language Suffering and Value and Poetry and Value In all his criticism Hill reveals literature to be an essential arena of civic intelligence War's Embers Ivor Gurney, 1919 The

Clique ,1979 Meridian ,1989 Art and Survival in First World War Britain Stuart Sillars, 1987 Contrary Experiences Peter Münz, 2004 The First World War began with enthusiastic flag waving aggressive propaganda and poets who glorified the conflict with the abstract ideal of dying for one s patria Mingled with the conviction of the enemy s war guilt and the belief in the justice of the own cause these things formed a psychological amalgamation which caused a total blindness to what modern mass warfare would really mean Only those in the eye of the storm soon came to regard the conduct of their political leaders and military commanders as a universal failure in leadership and responsibility The soldiers who wrote about their bleak war experience produced a Literature of Disillusion Borne out of the blood and corrugated soil of the Western Front it expressed the front fighter s estrangement from those who did not live through the war s horrors while it evoked the solid bond between those who did a bond that even embraced the enemy But how in particular did the British soldier view his German opponent and what kind of experiences shaped his views And how is the attitude to the foe processed in the Literature of the Western Front Contrary Experiences explores many examples of Great War writing that give an answer to these questions and assesses them against the background of both the anti German propaganda of the Home Front and the psychological requirements of trench warfare The findings not only demonstrate that the Great War despite its unprecedented horrors still offered room for moral behaviour They also prove Wilfred Owen s contention that the poetry is in the pity Remembering, We Forget Hilda D.
