Politics and Class Formation in Uganda Mahmood Mamdani, 1976 The Political Development of Uganda T. V. Sathyamurthy, 1986 Citizen and Subject Mahmood Mamdani, 2018-05

In analyzing the obstacles to democratization in post independence Africa Mahmood Mamdani offers a bold insightful account of colonialism's legacy a bifurcated power that mediated racial domination through tribally organized local authorities reproducing racial identity in citizens and ethnic identity in subjects Many writers have understood colonial rule as either direct French or indirect British with a third variant apartheid as exceptional This benign terminology Mamdani shows masks the fact that these were actually variants of a despotism While direct rule denied rights to subjects on racial grounds indirect rule incorporated them into a customary mode of rule with state appointed Native Authorities defining custom By tapping authoritarian possibilities in culture and by giving culture an authoritarian bent indirect rule decentralized despotism set the pace for Africa the French followed suit by changing from direct to indirect administration while apartheid emerged relatively later Apartheid Mamdani shows was actually the generic form of the colonial state in Africa Through case studies of rural Uganda and urban South Africa resistance movements we learn how these institutional features fragment resistance and how states tend to play off reform in one sector against repression in the other The result is a groundbreaking reassessment of colonial rule in Africa and its enduring aftereffects Reforming a power that institutionally enforces tension between town and country and between ethnicities is the key challenge for anyone interested in democratic reform in Africa

Insecurities of Expulsion Anneeth Kaur Hundle, 2025-05-02

In 1972 Ugandan president Idi Amin expelled close to 80 000 South Asians of Ugandan heritage from the country by dictatorial decree In Insecurities of Expulsion Anneeth Kaur Hundle revisits this weighty historical event arguing that it is neither an exceptional nor a parochial event neither a result of primordial Afro South Asian racial conflict nor an opening into a redemptive search for Afro South Asian interracial solidarities Hundle explores the aftermaths and continuous nature of the expulsion event examining its effects and affects the images representations and differentiated experiences and memories of the event and the tense and ambivalent practices of citizenship sovereignty and governance that have emerged in the decades following the expulsion She examines Afro Asian entanglements in what she describes as transcontinental Uganda through the lenses of race ethnicity class caste religion gender and sexuality Throughout Hundle argues for stronger attention to knowledge production on global Afro South Asian connections and the continued dynamics of community citizenship and identity on the African Continent as central to envisioning Black African self determinism racial reconciliation and interracial pluralisms during shifting imperial postcolonial nationalist and geopolitical times
