Eschatological glory is a significant motif in Romans that has failed to garner the attention it deserves. Donald Berry argues that glory lies at the heart of Paul's redemptive historical framework and is an integral part of the gospel Paul proclaims in Romans. For Paul, eschatological glory is the realization of God's purpose for Adam and for Israel to see and to show forth the glory of God. This divine purpose finds fulfillment in Christ and in the new humanity he creates; those who now have hope of the glory of God. Rom 5:2. Paul's letter to the Romans provides stunning glimpses into the nature of this eschatological glory and the hope that believers have in Christ. Through careful and compelling exegesis, Berry brings to light Paul's conception of glory and its place at the center of God's purposes in redemptive history. While providing crucial insights into Romans, this study also contributes more broadly to Pauline theology and to the field of biblical theology. It highlights Paul's understanding of a unified divine purpose that runs through creation and redemption: God's desire to display his nature and character in all of creation through image bearers who share in and reflect his glory.

The history of Paulinism in the primitive church. Otto Pfeleiderer, 1891. A Commentary on St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans. Joseph Agar Beet, 1877. Thessaloniki, Stadt des Kassander und Gemeinde des Paulus. Christoph Vom Brocke, 2001. English summary. Christoph vom Brocke deals with the visit of the Apostle Paul to Thessalonica during his second missionary journey and with the history of the city itself, which was founded by the Macedonian king Cassander. He begins by focusing on the results of recent archeological research on ancient Thessalonica: its monuments, its society, and its economy, and in particular on the Pauline era, the first century after Christ. He continues by expanding upon certain aspects of local history on the basis of material from antiquity and relating them to selected passages from 1 Thessalonians and the Thessalonica pericope of the Acts of the Apostles. German description: Der Besuch des Apostels Paulus in Thessaloniki während seiner zweiten Missionsreise und die Geschichte dieser vom makedonischen König Kassander gegründeten Stadt stehen im Mittelpunkt dieser Studie. Christoph vom Brocke sammelt zunächst die Ergebnisse der neueren archaologischen Forschung im Blick auf das antike Thessaloniki: seine Monumente, seine Gesellschaft und Wirtschaft, und fokussiert sie speziell auf die Zeit des Paulus beziehungsweise auf das 1. Jahrhundert nach Christus. Danach werden auf der Grundlage antiker Materialien bestimmte Aspekte der Lokalgeschichte herausgearbeitet und mit ausgewählten Stellen des 1. Thessalonicherbriefes und der Thessaloniker Perikope der Apostelgeschichte in Beziehung gesetzt. Christoph vom Brocke behandelt unter anderem den religiösen und kultischen Hintergrund der jungen christlichen Gemeinde von Thessaloniki und die Frage nach den Urhebern der Verfolgungen, denen die Thessaloniker ausgesetzt waren. Ausserdem untersucht er neben

den lokalen Gegebenheiten für die Reise des Paulus nach Thessaloniki auch die Historizität der Angaben in der Apostelgeschichte er diskutiert die antiken Zeugnisse über die Existenz einer jüdischen Gemeinde in Thessaloniki ebenso eingehend wie die juristischen Voraussetzungen für das Verfahren gegen den Gastgeber des Paulus Gerade die Zusammenstellung und Auswertung der Angaben über Namen und Personen der frühen christlichen Gemeinde von Thessaloniki ist im Hinblick auf die Soziologie des Urchristentums von grossem Interesse
