Environmental Problem Solving Alan Miller,2013-12-01 Human influences create both environmental problems and barriers to effective policy aimed at addressing those problems In effect environmental managers manage people as much as they manage the environment Therefore they must gain an understanding of the psychological and sociopolitical dimensions of environmental problems that they are attempting to resolve In Environmental Problem Solving Alan Miller reappraises conventional analyses of environmental problems using lessons from the psychosocial disciplines He combines the disciplines of ecology political sociology and psychology to produce a more adaptive approach to problem solving that is specifically

The Politics of Chemical Risk: Scenarios for a Regulatory Future R. Bal, Willem Halffman, 2013-04-17

All industrial countries have developed regulatory systems to assess and manage the risk of chemical substances to the working and natural environment The pressure to harmonize these often specialized regulatory systems is increasingly strong at the international level Such harmonization not only entails the assessment of particular chemicals but also the way assessment procedures and their boundary with risk management is organized As these initiatives intensify they increasingly raise important questions of how to integrate national differences in the international regulatory arena How will national consultation procedures relate to international decision making on chemical risks How will differences in national risk assessment procedures be accommodated How will the international regulatory system be integrated with different national styles of regulation and government Presenting the experiences and insights of both people from within the worlds of risk assessment and management and from the field of Science Studies this book forms a state of the art in the discussion on the Politics of Chemical Risk By offering scenarios or sketches of a regulatory future it points to the choices that can be made and the opportunities to be explored As such it offers an agenda for environmental and occupational scientists policy makers and students of science and technology alike

The Philosophy of Expertise Evan Selinger, Robert P. Crease, 2006 From the use of expert testimony in the courtroom to the advice we rely on to solve key economic political and social problems expertise is an essential part of our decision making process However the extent to which experts can be trusted is a subject of persistent and contentious debate The Philosophy of Expertise is the first collection to explore the fundamental philosophical issues surrounding these authorities and their expert knowledge Part 1 considers the problems surrounding the issue of trust and deference part 2 launches a phenomenological clarification of expertise that pinpoints the universal structures embodied in cognition and affect and part 3 examines the consequences of the social and technical externalization of expertise Contributors including Edward Said Alvin Goldman Peter Singer Hubert Dreyfus Julia Annas Harry Collins and Don Ihde draw on a number of intellectual approaches to explore the justification of expert authority the potentially dangerous role of expertise in a liberal democratic society how laypeople can critique experts and the social and ideological character of expert advice The contributors also discuss the reasoning process of judges and juries the ancient Greek view of moral conduct and the incorporation of experts into governmental bureaucracy By honestly tackling the legitimacy and consistency of various positions this volume sheds much needed light on the theoretical dimensions of a controversial and pervasive practice Contributors Alvin I Goldman Don Ihde Edward Said Evan Selinger and John Mix Evan Selinger and
