Serving The Urban Poor:

Serving the Urban Poor David Fanshel, Stephen J. Finch, John F. Grundy, 1992-08-24 The urban poor suffer many problems beyond pressing financial concerns including those involving housing health and family relationships Social welfare agencies struggle to cope with the enormity of need presented by individuals and families The providers frequently lack a framework to guide their priorities and the delivery of services This volume based on the authors close and extensive collaboration with New York s Lower East Family Union affords a substantive insightful and effective approach not only to defining the services needed but also to the delivery thereof It also examines the cognitive and emotional states which the clients bring as they seek help Means are provided for establishing priority of needs assessing the value of preventive services and formulating family specific service responses Potential family dissolution and implicit child welfare concerns are viewed as especially critical and receives extensive constructive discussion Stressed poverty level families often approach helping agencies in a nearly exhausted condition The needs of such clients can only be answered and the last straw avoided if the agencies are structured to identify the most immediate needs and to supply the understanding supportive relationship and the requisite practical assistance This book with its extensive base of experience guides the process wisely It offers informed hope that the awful conditions of the urban poor can be ameliorated through better planned and effective service delivery and caring interventions

Clearinghouse Review, 1969 The Social Welfare Forum National Conference on Social Welfare. Annual Forum, 1966 Asia and the Pacific Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition 2018 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, World Food Programme, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, World Health Organization, 2018-11-02 During the last three years progress at reducing undernourishment has slowed tremendously in Asia and the Pacific After years of gains in combatting hunger progress has stagnated in all parts of this vast region Despite decades of economic growth nearly half a billion people remain undernourished Children in particular continue to face the burden of malnutrition this region is home to more than half of the world s malnourished children with one child in every four below the age of five suffering from stunting This is a colossal human loss given the association between undernutrition and poor cognitive development with severe lifelong consequences for these children At the same time and almost paradoxically Asia and the Pacific has witnessed rapid growth in the number of overweight children and the serious consequences that entails for their future health and well being This double burden of malnutrition sees undernourished and overweight children living in the same communities and households and it can even occur within the same child Efforts to fight hunger and malnutrition must go hand in hand with those to build and sustain peace and there is an urgent need to accelerate and scale up actions that strengthen resilience and adaptive capacity of people and their livelihoods to climate variability and extremes As migration from rural to urban areas continues apace particularly involving poorer families urban malnutrition is another challenge facing many countries In summary what is becoming increasingly clear is that the world cannot meet the 2030 target of zero hunger if Asia and the Pacific the world's most populous region is not leading the way It is a hard reality but one that must be faced with a united determination to turn things around For the first time four UN agencies have come together to jointly assess the state of food security and nutrition in Asia and the Pacific Together we hope that the findings of this report will contribute to a more informed dialogue Without doubt all stakeholders must make much greater efforts to accelerate progress toward the goals of a healthy and hunger free Asia and the Pacific Action is needed now The sense of urgency cannot be overstated Water Resources Impact, 2002

Infrastructure Regulation Darryl S. L. Jarvis, Xun Wu, 2011 Regulation of public infrastructure has been a topic of interest for more than a century Yet little is known about what works and why when it comes to infrastructure regulation This book intends to contribute to the understanding of infrastructure regulations by analyzing empirical cases in telecommunications electricity and water with examples drawn from a number of countries in Asia and beyond The book addresses the following questions Does regulation work What kind of regulation works What kinds don't work Why do some forms of regulation work and not others How do we know whether they work or not How do we isolate the effects of different political economic and legal contexts Are there systematic differences across infrastructure sectors that necessitate particular regulatory design It brings together distinguished scholars and practitioners who are experts in the area to address essential issues in regulation through conceptual and empirical studies Proceedings of the National Conference of Social Work National Conference on Social Welfare, 1886 Transforming Innovations in Africa Jan-Bart Gewald, André Leliveld, Iva

Peša, 2012-11-21 Africa abounds with examples of material and immaterial innovations that were envisaged developed and designed elsewhere yet came to be innovatively and sometimes unexpectedly transformed in Africa The authors in this volume explore how external innovations products technologies services institutions and processes have been appropriated in African societies in order to be acceptable and relevant to local conditions expectations and demands Written from different disciplinary perspectives the chapters demonstrate the depth and richness of innovation in Africa with in some cases surprising outcomes The case studies presented are on subjects as diverse as the wine industry trading stores land reforms washing powder M Pesa cassava weddings international borders guest houses urban water supply car technology shallow wells and railways and blacksmithing

Rethinking World Bank Influence D. Brent Edwards Jr., 2023-04-13 Why is it so hard for international development organizations even ones as well resourced and influential as the World Bank to generate and sustain change in the way things are done in those countries where they work Despite what in many cases is decades of investment and effort why do partner governments continue to engage in those traditional patterns and styles of public service management that international development organizations have sought to supplant with methods that are supposedly more accountable efficient and effective This book provides an answer to these questions However rather than pathologizing partner governments as the source of the problem that is rather than maintaining the distinction between doctor international development organizations and patient partner governments wherein the patient is seen as unwilling to take their medicine enacting good governance practices this book instead reframes the relationship The central argument is first that the programs and projects of international organizations are introduced into and are constrained by multiple layers of ritual governance that is performative acts and cultural logics that intersect with and reinforce the political economic and social structures in and through which they operate As is shown the contextual factors that guide governance practices are largely beyond the reach of the international development organizations the relevant logics have their roots in state ideology but also extend back to the colonial logics that continue to operate at the heart of the state apparatus The second the central argument is that international aid organizations and the governments with which they work are engaged in a ritual aid dance where each actor plays a part but does not and cannot acknowledge the ways that it depends on the other for its own gain This relationship can be considered a dance because each participant responds to and needs the other and because both sides do so in ways that are carefully choreographed with the overall trajectory or contours of the dance being more or less known to the participants These arguments are based on research on the World Bank s efforts over the course of several decades to encourage through its financing projects and technical assistance the implementation of social sector reform in Indonesia related to decentralization community participation and school based management

Revitalizing Urban Neighborhoods William Dennis Keating, Norman Krumholz, Philip Star, 1996 Since the 1950s and the advance of urban renewal local governments and urban policy have focused heavily on the central business district However such development has all but ignored the inner city neighborhoods that continue to struggle in the shadows of high rise America This analysis of urban neighborhoods in the United States from 1960 to 1995 presents fifteen essays by scholars of urban planning and development Together they show how urban neighborhoods can and must be preserved as economic cultural and political centers
