Fast Forward Torry D. Dickinson, Robert K. Schaeffer, 2001-07-20 This innovative global feminist analysis of work and politics examines the diverse problems and related protests of women and men who labor to make ends meet in a rapidly changing world Using vivid examples from around the world it reveals how globalization is reshaping social institutions and lives Fast Forward explores how businesses and states reshaped and redistributed work around the world during the last 30 years of globalization often with adverse consequences Within this fast moving context laboring people today engage in work outside of formal employment try to obtain survival resources mount a diverse array of often women centered protests against firms and states and try on their own terms to reinvent work and democratic political practices Portraying the human face of global change Fast Forward shows how overlapping social movements wrestle with economic and political marginalization and initiate highly diverse but related attempts to change the way the world works

Modernity with a Cold War Face Xiaojue Wang, 2013 Bridging the 1949 divide in both literary historical periodization and political demarcation Xiaojue Wang proposes a new framework to consider Chinese literature beyond national boundaries as something arising out of the larger global geopolitical and cultural conflict of the Cold War Provided by publisher International Affairs, 2001 East European Human Rights Review, 2001 Beirut 1975-1990 Sofia Toufic Shwayri, 2002 Beirut the Lebanese capital was for more than fifteen years a battlefield of conflicting interests that shifted between phases of destruction and phases of construction Much of the research into the city's 1975-1990 war period has often focused on the spaces of divisions highlighting the factions that helped erect and maintain them and overlooking other types of spaces that emerged in parallel such as the informal enclaves and private clubs Meanwhile these narratives lose sight of the continuous struggle of the Lebanese State to sustain its shrinking spatial base and consequently its dwindling political power This dissertation explores the process of urban change during conflict and more specifically how the shifting alliances between warring factions relate to spatial transformation Based on the contemporaneous destruction and construction of particular districts across the city I hypothesize that the interests of emerging groups displaced migrant Shiites businessmen and politicians drove the way certain areas developed and prospered while others declined and dwindled Environment and Planning, 2003 International interdisciplinary journal discussing the relations between Society and Space Space is broadly conceived from landscapes of the body to global geographies from cyberspace to old growth forests as metaphorical and material as theoretical construct and empirical fact Covers both practical politics and the abstractions of social theory Severed States Robert K. Schaeffer, 1999-04-29 This book provides the first comprehensive examination of modern political partition and military conflict Once touted as the most efficient geopolitical means for resolving ideological and ethnic strife partition has too often served to deepen enmity and provoke further violence Robert K Schaeffer argues that partition and its accompanying conflicts have their roots not in ancient hatreds but in the political realities of the twentieth century In a keen and lucid analysis he reveals how the fate of these nations was dictated by the dreams and machinations of more powerful states particularly Great Britain the United States and the Soviet Union Schaeffer also examines the spread of terrorism and guerrilla warfare in the divided states as well as the destructive legacy of partition
