Problems in Twentieth Century French Philosophy Sean Bowden, Mark G. E. Kelly, 2020-06-05 Read through the lens of a single key concept in twentieth century French philosophy that of the problem this book relates the concept to specific thinkers and situates it in relation both to the wider history of philosophy and contemporary concerns. How exactly should the notion of problems be understood? What must a problem be in order to play an inaugurating role in thought? Does the word problem have a univocal sense? What is at stake theoretically, ethically, politically and institutionally when philosophers use the word? This book addresses these and other questions and is devoted to making historical and philosophical sense of the various uses and conceptualisations of notions of problems, problematics and problematisations in twentieth century French thought. In the process it augments our understanding of the philosophical programs of a number of recent French thinkers, reconfigures our perception of the history and wider stakes of twentieth century French philosophy and reveals the ongoing theoretical richness and critical potential of the notion of the problem and its cognates. Working through the twentieth century and focussing on specific thinkers including Foucault and Deleuze, this book will be of interest to all scholars of French philosophy. This book was originally published as a special issue of Angelaki.

Grundlagen des philosophisch-anthropologischen Diskurses im dreizehnten Jahrhundert Theodor Köhler, 2022-10-04 The subject of this monograph are the theories of philosophical reflection on man in the thirteenth century. It describes and analyses the views and debates of scholastic philosophers on the scientific approach to anthropological issues. After an outline of previous research, the efforts of the magistri to integrate anthropologic studies into the framework of their sciences are examined in detail and their ideas on the reliability and usefulness of various scientific methods as well as their judgements on the value and dignity of different disciplines are investigated. Particular attention is given to the scholars' discussions on the interrelationship between our understanding of man and our understanding of the world as a whole. This is the first comprehensive source-based study of the subject; it draws heavily on inedited texts.
