Process And Practice With Readings:

Theory and Practice of Early Reading L. B. Resnick, P. A. Weaver, 2013-12-16 First Published in 1979 These volumes explore the range and depth of our theoretical and practical knowledge about early reading instruction Contributors psychologists linguists instructional designers reading and special education experts were asked to address three questions 1 What is the nature of skilled reading 2 How is reading skill acquired 3 What do the nature of skilled reading and the process of acquiring reading skill jointly suggest for reading instruction This is Volume I of a collection of essays looking at topics such as reading stages coding and comprehension skills word recognition language skills instruction and teaching theories and an analysis of reading two beginning reading programs Cognitive principles, critical practice: Reading literature at university Susanne Reichl, 2009-09-16 This enquiry into the principles and practice of reading literature brings together insights from cognitive studies literary theory empirical literature studies learning and teaching research and higher education research Reading is conceptualised as an active process of meaning making that is determined by subjective as well as contextual factors and guided by a sense of purpose This sense of purpose part of a professional and conscious approach to reading is the central element in the model of reading that this study proposes As well as a conceptual aim this model also has pedagogical power and serves as the basis for a number of critical and creative exercises geared towards developing literary reading strategies and strategic reading competences in general These activities demonstrate how the main tenets of the study can be put into practice within the context of a particular institution of higher education
