

pines. The Asia specialist will relish the piece by H.L.D. Selvaratnam on "The Guarantee Shroffs, the Chettiars, and the Hongkong Bank in Ceylon"; the article on Thailand's "first bank", written by Thiravet Pramuanratkarn, is also very good. While it seemed a bit unrelated to the main theme of the book, the article by Harold P. Anderson, "Wells Fargo and Chinese Customers in Nineteenth Century California", addresses the connection between "Golden Mountain", the Chinese term (Gum Shan) for San Francisco, and Asia — tracing the fascinating history of a firm clever enough not only to use the Chinese language in its advertising, but also arranging to have its new place of business exorcised of evil spirits (p. 747).

Other interesting tidbits include a bit of architecture, a bit of numismatism, and some moral history about the good old days. One learns the origins of the word "posh" — "Port Out, Star-board Home", because the port side outwards was on the north and shady side, and the ship got very hot going down the Red Sea or across the Indian Ocean, especially on the starboard side. When you were coming back home, starboard was on the north side and that was the cool side of the ship. That's how 'posh' originated" (p. 215). The good old days are apparently also rather amusingly recounted in Psmith in the City, published by P.G. Wodehouse in 1910, who himself spent two years "in the City" in the service of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank. On the whole, Christopher Cook's splendid little essay on Wodehouse agrees with the latter's view of British banking practices and problems. It is said that back then, the initials "HSBC" stood for "Heart and Soul-Breaking Corporation", for its juniors were not permitted to marry for ten years.

By now, the reader is no doubt aware of the fact that this reviewer enjoyed greatly his assignment. The book's size makes it difficult to evaluate as a scholarly contribution; some of the thirty-three papers are indeed deadly dull and tend to be a bit too respectful of the Pearl of the Orient. However, "the Bank" is to be heartily congratulated for its interest in its own history, for opening its archives for researchers, and for subsidizing the publication of this beautiful and valuable book.

SEATO: The Failure of an Alliance Strategy. By LESZEK BUSZYNSKI. Singapore: Singapore University Press, 1983. Pp. xi, 263. Note on Sources, Plates, Appendix, Bibliography, Index.

Leszek Buszynski's doctoral thesis, transformed into a book, is a careful, informative, and well-prepared study. Particularly useful are the discussions and analyses of the five basic stages of the organisation's "life cycle", related to the changing conditions that faced SEATO, and to which it was supposed to respond. The different views and interests of the members, at all stages, are clearly brought out. And the conclusion — "The Misuse of Alliance" — makes a strong point.

The first chapter starts out with the uncompromising statement: "The Manila Treaty was formed to facilitate American intervention in Southeast Asia and in Indochina in

Seato The Failure Of An Alliance Strategy:

SEATO, the Failure of an Alliance Strategy Leszek Buszynski, 1983 SEATO Leszek Buszynski, 1983 Divided Allies Thomas K. Robb, David James Gill, 2019-11-15 By directly challenging existing accounts of post World War II relations among the United States of America the United Kingdom Australia and New Zealand Divided Allies is a significant contribution to transnational and diplomatic history At its heart Divided Allies examines why strategic cooperation among these closely allied Western powers in the Asia Pacific region was limited during the early Cold War Thomas K Robb and David James Gill probe the difficulties of security cooperation as the leadership of these four states balanced intramural competition with the need to develop a common strategy against the Soviet Union and the new communist power the People's Republic of China Robb and Gill expose contention and disorganization among non communist allies in the early phase of containment strategy in Asia Pacific In particular the authors note the significance of economic racial and cultural elements to planning for regional security and they highlight how these domestic matters resulted in international disorganization Divided Allies shows that amidst these contentious relations the antipodean powers Australia and New Zealand occupied an important role in the region and successfully utilized quadrilateral diplomacy to advance their own national interests such as the crafting of the 1951 ANZUS collective security treaty As fractious as were allied relations in the early days of NATO Robb and Gill demonstrate that the post World War II Asia Pacific was as contentious and that Britain and the commonwealth nations were necessary partners in the development of early global Cold War strategy Whose Ideas Matter? Amitav Acharya, 2011-07-22 Asia is a crucial battleground for power and influence in the international system It is also a theater of new experiments in regional cooperation that could redefine global order Whose Ideas Matter is the first book to explore the diffusion of ideas and norms in the international system from the perspective of local actors with Asian regional institutions as its main focus There's no Asian equivalent of the EU or of NATO Why has Asia and in particular Southeast Asia avoided such multilateral institutions Most accounts focus on U S interests and perceptions or intraregional rivalries to explain the design and effectiveness of regional institutions in Asia such as SEATO ASEAN and the ASEAN Regional Forum Amitav Acharya instead foregrounds the ideas of Asian policymakers including their response to the global norms of sovereignty and nonintervention Asian regional institutions are shaped by contestations and compromises involving emerging global norms and the preexisting beliefs and practices of local actors Acharya terms this perspective constitutive localization and argues that international politics is not all about Western ideas and norms forcing their way into non Western societies while the latter remain passive recipients Rather ideas are conditioned and accepted by local agents who shape the diffusion of ideas and norms in the international system Acharya sketches a normative trajectory of Asian regionalism that constitutes an important contribution to the global sovereignty regime and explains a remarkable continuity in the design and functions of Asian regional institutions Failed Alliances of the Cold War Panagiotis Dimitrakis, 2011-12-18 The Cold War was a period of intense political rivalry in which diplomacy and international relations in Asia and the Middle East acquired huge global significance In this study Panagiotis Dimitrakis explores British policy towards SEATO South East Asia Treaty Organisation and CENTO Central Treaty Organisation Designed in the 1950s to counter the Soviet Union s attempts to expand its global influence these alliances with Asian and Middle Eastern powers were at the centre of western efforts to maintain regional influence Yet they failed to bring together the differing aims and ambitions of their regional members and were dissolved in 1977 and 1979 respectively This study examines the Cold War policies of the United States Iran and Pakistan as well as the effect of British diplomacy on the war in Vietnam and SEATO planning The formation of CENTO in 1959 an alliance comprising Britain Iran Turkey and Pakistan with the support of the USA was one of the grandest Cold War gestures of solidarity The emergence of new diplomatic records however questions the true commitment of Britain and the United States to come to the defence of their new allies in Asia and the Middle East In fact even in cases of aggression on the part of the Soviet Union the priorities of Britain and the USA were ultimately self serving despite their Cold War rhetoric of ideological unity and common purpose As the 1950s came to a close serious irreconcilable differences in the defence policies of the SEATO and CENTO members began to emerge Citing the latest declassified British and American intelligence assessments diplomats dispatches and military plans Dimitrakis shows how nations across South East Asia fought for material supremacy how Britain and the United States avoided supporting SEATO and CENTO and how d tente led to the demise of these alliances Failed Alliances of the Cold War will be a crucial point of reference for scholars of the Cold War and those working in the fields of History Politics and International Relations
