Seeing Beauty, Sensing Race in Transnational Indonesia L. Ayu Saraswati, 2013-03-31 In Indonesia light skin color has been desirable throughout recorded history. Seeing Beauty Sensing Race explores Indonesia's changing beauty ideals and traces them to a number of influences: first to ninth century India and some of the oldest surviving Indonesian literary works; then a thousand years later to the impact of Dutch colonialism and the wartime occupation of Japan; and finally in the post colonial period to the popularity of American culture. The book shows how the transnational circulation of people images and ideas have shaped and shifted discourses and hierarchies of race, gender, skin color and beauty in Indonesia. The author employs affect theories and feminist cultural studies as a lens through which to analyze a vast range of materials including the Old Javanese epic poem Ramayana, archival materials, magazine advertisements, commercial products and numerous interviews with Indonesian women. The book offers a rich repertoire of analytical and theoretical tools that allow readers to rethink issues of race and gender in a global context and understand how feelings and emotions Western constructs as well as Indian, Javanese and Indonesian notions such as rasa and malu contribute to and are constitutive of transnational and gendered processes of racialization. Saraswati argues that it is how emotions come to be attached to certain objects and how they circulate that shape the emotionscape of white beauty in Indonesia. Her ground breaking work is a nuanced theoretical exploration of the ways in which representations of beauty and the emotions they embody travel geographically and help shape attitudes and beliefs toward race and gender in a transnational world.

If You Should Go at Midnight Jeffrey S. Debies-Carl, 2023-04-21 Tonight across America countless people will embark on an adventure. They will prowl among overgrown headstones in forgotten graveyards, stalk through darkened woods and wildlands and creep down the crumbling corridors of abandoned buildings. They have set forth in search of a profound paranormal experience and may seem to achieve just that. They are part of the growing cultural phenomenon called legend tripping. In If You Should Go at Midnight: Legends and Legend Tripping in America, author Jeffrey S. Debies-Carl guides readers through an exploration of legend tripping, drawing on years of scholarship, documentary accounts and his own extensive fieldwork. Poring over old reports and legends, sleeping in haunted inns and trekking through wilderness full of cannibal mutants and strange beasts, Debies-Carl provides an in-depth analysis of this practice that has long fascinated scholars yet remains a mystery to many observers. Debies-Carl argues that legend trips are important social practices. Unlike traditional rites of passage, they reflect the modern world revealing both its problems and its virtues In society as well as in legend tripping there is ambiguity conflict crisis of meaning and the substitution of debate for social consensus Conversely both emphasize individual agency and values even in spiritual matters While people still need meaningful and transformative experiences authoritative traditional institutions are less capable of providing them Instead legend trippers voluntarily search for individually meaningful experiences and actively participate in shaping and interpreting those experiences for themselves Noir Materialism Michael Uhall,2024-04-24 In Noir Materialism Freedom and Obligation in Political Ecology Michael Uhall reengineers the conceptual relationship between nature and politics by crafting the terms of a new philosophy of nature and exploring its consequences for political theory These consequences include major theoretical reformulations of indispensable political ideas including freedom obligation and the subject These ideas need to be retooled because the ecological crisis devastating our planet is at root a political crisis deeply inflected by the concepts used to help navigate decisional and material environments Noir Materialism stages pivotal encounters with Hannah Arendt Roberto Esposito and F W J Schelling as well as engaging critically with biopolitics environmental political thought new materialism the ontological turn in anthropology and surprisingly film noir Ultimately Noir Materialism argues that only a return to the night side of nature can address the conceptual gridlock impeding attempts to register and respond to the ecological crisis Lincoln Review ,1986
