Seascape With Body:

Seascape with Body Raymond Flynn, 2006 Seascapes: Shaped by the Sea Mike Brown, Barbara Humberstone, 2016-04-01 Despite the fact that the sea covers 70 per cent of the Earth's surface and is integral to the workings of the world it has been largely neglected or perceived as marginal in modern consciousness This edited collection disrupts notions of the sea as other as foreign and featureless through specific situated accounts which highlight the centrality of the sea for the individuals concerned Bringing together academics who combine scholarly expertise with lived experiences on in and with the sea it examines humans relationships with the sea Through the use of auto ethnographic accounting the contributors reflect on how the sea has shaped their sense of identity belonging and connection They examine what it is to be engaged with the sea and narrate their lived sentient corporeal experiences The sea is a cultural seascape just as it is physical reality The sea shapes us and we in turn attempt to shape it as we construct various versions of it that reflect our on going and mutable relationship with it The use of embodied accounts as a way of conveying lived experiences and the integration of relevant theoretical frames for understanding the broader cultural implications provide new opportunities to understand seascapes Routledge Handbook of Seascapes Gloria Pungetti, 2022-07-31 Seascape studies have developed in response to questions arising from composite correlations such as coastal island and marine research social requirements landscape design and planning marine ecology and environment and resource management This global volume is the first comprehensive overview to provide a solid foundation on the concept of seascape with the latest research findings from leading experts across a variety of fields offering a holistic approach to seascape linking nature with culture and theory with practice Divided into six parts it includes over 30 chapters from contributors around the world Pioneering methods with illustrated case studies from the Mediterranean Scandinavia North Sea North America and Asia serve as examples for future seascape development conservation and governance An important and extremely timely resource the Routledge Handbook of Seascapes provides academics practitioners NGOs consultants and government officials with a broad overview of current research and practice for future application and advance worldwide Crisis and Body Politics in Twenty-First Century Cultural Production Charlotte Spear, Madeleine Sinclair, 2025-01-31 The twenty first century has been deemed the Age of Crisis We are witnessing the catastrophic unfolding of environmental crisis financial crisis pandemic and conflict But are we to understand these crises as new phenomena Is their seemingly simultaneous existence purely coincidental Or rather do they instead form part of a singular historically produced unfolding crisis which only today has reached a generalised consciousness And perhaps most urgently how far can we separate the crises of human experience from those exacted upon the land The chapters collected in Crisis and Body Politics in Twenty First Century Cultural Production Territorial Bodies deploy the framework of Territorial Bodies to address urgent social ecological and political challenges Examining themes such as inter national bodily governance racialised bodies eco feminist movements spatial justice and bodily displacement this collection provides a deeper analysis of the interconnected forms of violence perpetrated against marginalised human and non human bodies taking this combined violence as the defining feature of contemporary crisis

Duncanson, 1993 Known in the mid nineteenth century as the best landscape painter in the West Robert S Duncanson fell into obscurity for nearly a century after his death In this first full length biography Joseph Ketner restores the artist to his place in the history of American art He explores Duncanson's role as an African American artist in American society and reveals his lasting contribution to American landscape painting Duncanson came of age in a time of turmoil Living and working in Cincinnati he felt the white backlash against increasing abolitionist sentiment that prompted riots and murders in the city's black district Even as a freeman of color Duncanson faced the specter of slavery daily in the markets at the docks and across the Ohio River from his home Duncanson persevered With no professional training he taught himself to paint by copying prints and portraits and sketching from nature He began his career as a house painter and decorator eventually graduating to the work that would make him famous in his time landscape painting As his skill with a paintbrush grew Duncanson developed into a sensitive painter of the picturesque and pastoral qualities that he found in the land These works established him as the primary painter in the Ohio River valley during the 1850s and 1860s and contributed to the foundation of the Cincinnati landscape tradition While employing the mainstream aesthetics of American landscape painting that would propel him to international recognition he also imbued his landscapes with a veiled significance that was understood by the African American community His dream of an America free of racial oppression found expression in romantic landscapes of an exotic paradise Even as he made his way in the previously all white art world he claimed the American landscape as part of the African American experience Duncanson's success in the mainstream art world marked the emergence of the African American artist from a people predominantly relegated to laborers and artisans many of whom are discussed here Like Phyllis Wheatley and Frederick Douglass Robert Duncanson overcame racial oppression to give expression to African American cultural identity With more than 130 samples of the work of Duncanson and other African American artists including 20 color plates The Emergence of the African-American Artist is a major contribution to the history of art in America BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Northern Ethnographic Landscapes Igor Krupnik, 2004 Many northern nations have long established policies for the documentation and protection of historical monuments archaeological sites old churches and cemeteries and other historic sites on the landscape Little is known however about the knowledge memory and historical value of the landscape in northern indigenous cultures and even less has been done to build the legal and policy foundation to preserve this heritage for future generations Northern Ethnographic Landscapes reviews current progress in this field across the
