Preparing Teachers To Teach Global Perspectives A Handbook For Teacher Educators:

Preparing Teachers to Teach Global Perspectives Merry M. Merryfield, Elaine Jarchow, Sarah Pickert, 1996-12-19 In today's global village the ability to relate to people from other cultures is becoming increasingly important for all those involved in education. Designed for teacher trainers, this book will help in shaping and assessing teacher preparation programmes from a global perspective. The book offers a clear conceptual framework for the exploration of global perspectives, an insightful guide for establishing goals, objectives, and rationale, a working definition of global education, and a rich collection of case studies that can be translated into a variety of settings. Handbook of Research in Social Studies Education Linda S.

Levstik, Cynthia A. Tyson, 2010-04-15 This Handbook outlines the current state of research in social studies education, a complex, dynamic, challenging field with competing perspectives about appropriate goals and on-going conflict over the content of the curriculum. Equally important, it encourages new research in order to advance the field and foster civic competence long maintained by advocates for the social studies as a fundamental goal. In considering how to organize the Handbook, the editors searched out definitions of social studies, statements of purpose, and themes that linked or divided theory, research, and practices, and established criteria for topics to include. Each chapter meets one or more of these criteria: research activity since the last Handbook that warrants a new analysis; topics representing a major emphasis in the NCSS standards; and topics reflecting an emerging or reemerging field within the social studies. The volume is organized around seven themes: Change and Continuity in Social Studies; Civic Competence in Pluralist Democracies; Social Justice and the Social Studies; Assessment and Accountability; Teaching and Learning in the Disciplines; Information Ecologies; Technology in the Social Studies; Teacher Preparation and Development. The Handbook of Research in Social Studies is a must-have resource for all beginning and experienced researchers in the field. Interculturalization and Teacher Education

Cheryl Hunter, Donna Pearson, 2014-12-05 Institutions of higher education are keen to improve teachers' intercultural experiences, communication, and understanding, but offer few resources for bringing the research literature to direct application in teacher education programs. This volume addresses that gap by examining what intercultural exchanges in teacher education look like, why they are important, and how they can be maintained. The authors examine how socio-cultural beliefs, institutional structures, and external accreditation bodies interact in the process of interculturalization, highlighting the incentives and barriers, as well as strategies to implement and maintain interculturalization projects. Highlighting pragmatic examples, this book addresses the challenges and benefits of interculturalization that can be applied to teacher education programs from both a theoretical and practitioner perspective. Internationalization of Teacher Education Reyes L. Quezada, 2014-07-16 This book proposes to excite readers to engage in conversations on how Schools and Colleges of Education can internationalize teacher education programs so that graduates have global teaching experiences that teacher education curricula include global perspectives and that there are opportunities to have faculty think and teach from a global perspective The contributions in this book are by authors who have the knowledge and expertise in international teacher education to answer many questions regarding the development of a 21st century competent global teaching force They describe their experiences programs and support for the goal of continuing to internationalize Schools and Colleges of Education The book is designed to be interactive readers are encouraged to engage themselves in the conversation as the editor invites them to e mail any of the authors to discuss questions posed Questions addressed in this issue include defining internationalization global teacher competency hearing voices from the field as graduates and faculty share how internationalization has had an impact on teaching program development and professional and personal development This book was originally published as a special issue of Teaching Education

Internationalizing Teacher Education for Social Justice JoAnn Phillion, Suniti Sharma, Hannah L. Sasser, Jubin Rahatzad, 2014-03-01 In Internationalizing Teacher Education for Social Justice Theory Research and Practice editors Suniti Sharma JoAnn Phillion Jubin Rahatzad and Hannah L. Sasser present a collection of personal passionate and participatory global perspectives of teacher educators on internationalizing teacher education for social justice The reader will encounter each author s personal and professional journey into global classrooms for internationalizing teacher education and supporting future teachers in developing competencies necessary for addressing the academic needs of diverse K 12 classrooms This collection provides a broad critical and interpretive overview of shifts in U S and global perspectives to offer transformative frameworks and strategies on preparing K 12 teachers to meet the complex demands for skills in the twenty first century The global tenor of this book framed by theory research and practice spanning several countries provides a timely contribution to internationalizing teacher education for social justice in the twenty first century The authors dedication to preparing teachers who have knowledge of world cultures and global issues combined with a deep commitment to social justice for promoting equity in education informs each chapter The authors take up the internationalization of teacher education for social justice as both an opportunity and a challenge transcending rhetoric to meaningful action situating their global understanding to inform readers of critical engagement with and examination of theory research and practice for effecting social and educational change

Doing Democracy Darren E. Lund, Paul R. Carr, 2008 In this provocative collection of essays with a distinctly critical and nuanced approach to how democracy is taught learned understood and lived authors from four continents share their visions on how democracy needs to be cultivated critiqued demonstrated and manifested throughout the educational experience The collective concern is how we actually do democracy in education The essays argue that democracy must be infused in everything that happens at school curriculum extra curricular activities interaction with parents and communities and through formal organization and structures One of the book's central questions is Are educators merely teaching students skills and knowledge to prepare them for the world of work or is education more about encouraging students to thrive within a pluralistic society This book reveals that democracy is an ethos an ideology a set of values a philosophy and a complex and dynamic terrain that is a contested forum for debate From seasoned veterans to emerging scholars these writers challenge the idea that there is only one type of democracy or that democracy is defined by elections Using a range of theoretical conceptual and methodological approaches each essay makes a compelling case for how education can advance a more critical engagement in democracy that promotes social justice and political literacy for all

Diverse examples illustrate the theme of doing democracy With its numerous models for teaching and learning to encourage critical thinking and engagement this book is certain to be an invaluable resource to educators researchers students and anyone with a passion for democratic ideals     Education and Society ,2007     Bulletin ,1936     American Book Publishing Record ,2007
