Present Moment In Psychotherapy And Everyday Life:

Present Moment in Psychotherapy Daniel N. Stern, 2004 Beginning with the claim that we are all psychologically alive only in the now this book invites readers to reconsider their day to day experiences Stern shows how certain moments of shared immediate experience are at the very core of human experience

The Present Moment in Psychotherapy and Everyday Life Daniel N. Stern, 2010-05-17 While most psychotherapies agree that therapeutic work in the here and now has the greatest power to bring about change few if any books have ever addressed the problem of what here and now actually means Beginning with the claim that we are psychologically alive only in the now internationally acclaimed child psychiatrist Daniel N Stern tackles vexing yet fascinating questions such as what is the nature of nowness How is now experienced between two people What do present moments have to do with therapeutic growth and change Certain moments of shared immediate experience such as a knowing glance across a dinner table are paradigmatic of what Stern shows to be the core of human experience the 3 to 5 seconds he identifies as the present moment By placing the present moment at the center of psychotherapy Stern alters our ideas about how therapeutic change occurs and about what is significant in therapy As much a meditation on the problems of memory and experience as it is a call to appreciate every moment of experience The Present Moment is a must read for all who are interested in the latest thinking about human experience

Psychological Agency Roger Frie, 2008 A multidisciplinary exploration of agency as a central psychological phenomenon based on the affective embodied and relational processing of human experience Agency is a central psychological phenomenon that must be accounted for in any explanatory framework for human action According to the diverse group of scholars researchers and clinicians who have contributed chapters to this book psychological agency is not a fixed entity that conforms to traditional definitions of free will but an affective embodied and relational processing of human experience Agency is dependent on the biological social and cultural contexts that inform and shape who we are Yet agency also involves the creation of meaning and the capacity for imagining new and different ways of being and acting and cannot be entirely reduced to biology or culture This generative potential of agency is central to the process of psychotherapy and to psychological change and development The chapters explore psychological agency in theoretical clinical and developmental and social and cultural contexts Psychological agency is presented as situated within a web of intersecting biophysical and cultural contexts in an ongoing interactive and developmental process Persons are seen as not only shaped by but also capable of fashioning and refashioning their contexts in new and meaningful ways The contributors have all trained in psychology or psychiatry and many have backgrounds in philosophy wherever possible they combine theoretical discussion with clinical case illustration Contributors John Fiscalini Roger Frie Jill Gentile Adelbert H Jenkins Elliot L Jurist Jack Martin Arnold Modell Linda Pollock Pascal Sauvayre Jeff Sugarman
