Lincoln and the Politics of Christian Love Grant N. Havers, 2009-11-13 Havers argues that it is simplistic to conflate Lincoln's invocation of with charity for all with his abiding support for the ideal of human equality. The ethic of charity in his view also brought a uniquely Christian realism to the universalism of democracy. He also describes how since World War I intellectuals and political leaders have denied that there exists a necessary relation between democracy and Christian love proposing that democracy is sufficiently ethical without reliance on a specific religious tradition. Today is neoconservatives and liberals instead posit a universal yearning for democracy that requires no foundation in the ethic of charity. Havers shows that this democratic universalism espoused by those who believe a chosen people should uphold the natural rights of humanity is alien to the sober thought of both the founders and Lincoln.
