Reason For Science:

Reason in Science and Beyond Małgorzata Czarnocka, 2025-10-29 Science often claims to apply reason and act rationally. However, the understanding of reason and rationality might be different and is not always transparent. Based on extensive analysis of existing concepts, Czarnocka offers a new concept of scientific reason. She shows that scientific reason is methodical and not instrumental, and its basic forms are universal, i.e., they determine rules of cognition and action in all the human experience. She also argues that methodical reason grows out of subjective reason and ultimately from objective anthropic reason, i.e., from the foundations of human collective wisdom as well as from ontic reason. The author claims that there is a three-layer hierarchy of reasons linked by the relation of conditioning. Methodical reason is conditioned by subjective reason, and this in turn is conditioned by the deepest layer, which includes two objective reasons: anthropic reason and ontic reason. Moreover, she reveals that the problem of reason in science is not an isolated problem of science itself but is related to issues of human nature and of culture as well as the problems of collective human wisdom and ontic nature of reality.

Science's War On Reason Mike Hockney, 2016-01-02 People can't reason. They don't even know what reason is. Reason is almost always harnessed to something that has nothing to do with reason. Believers in mainstream religion are feeling types who reason with their emotions or with their mystical intuitions. Scientists are sensing types. They subordinate their reason to their senses. All scientists are empiricists and are opposed to rationalism, i.e., the existence of a rational order of reality completely removed from the human senses, which can only be apprehended rationally, logically, mathematically, and via intellectual intuition. Scientists try to don the cloak of rationalism even though they are explicitly opposed to mathematical rationalism, which addresses a more fundamental noumenal reality than the one amenable to phenomenal science.

Linguistics as a Science Victor H. Yngve, 1986 English Mechanic and Mirror of Science and Art, 1893 The Phrenological Journal and Science of Health, 1895 Mr. Lockyer's Logic. [A Criticism of His "Science Primers. Astronomy".] Dedicated to the Members of the London School Board William Carpenter (of Greenwich.), 1876 Chemical News and Journal of Industrial Science, 1899 Why Science? James Trefil, 2008 With conviction and clarity prize winning scientist and bestselling author James Trefil explains why every U.S. citizen needs to be scientifically literate. As Trefil sees it, citizens simply cannot participate fully in the democratic process if they don't understand fundamental scientific concepts. And he describes exactly what these principles are, from understanding natural selection to grasping Maxwell's Equations governing electricity and magnetism, from recognizing that the surface of the earth is constantly in flux to grasping the basic concepts of physics and chemistry. With an appreciation of our national state of ignorance on scientific matters, he not only explains these concepts but also shows why they are worth knowing.
