The Theatre of Sean O'Casey James

Moran, 2013-12-04 This Critical Companion to the work of one of Ireland's most famous and controversial playwrights Sean O'Casey is the first major study of the playwright's work to consider his oeuvre and the archival material that has appeared during the last decade. Published ahead of the centenary of the 1916 Easter Rising in Ireland with which O'Casey's most famous plays are associated, it provides a clear and detailed study of the work in context and performance. James Moran shows that O'Casey not only remains the most performed playwright at Ireland's national theatre but that the playwright was also one of the most controversial and divisive literary figures whose work caused riots and who alienated many of his supporters. Since the start of the Troubles in the North of Ireland, his work has been associated with Irish historical revisionism and has become the subject of debate about Irish nationalism and revolutionary history. Moran's admirably clear study considers the writer's plays, autobiographical writings and essays, paying special attention to the Dublin trilogy The Shadow of a Gunman, Juno and the Paycock and The Plough and the Stars. It considers the work produced in exile during the war and the late plays. The Companion also features a number of interviews and essays by other leading scholars and practitioners including Garry Hynes, Victor Merriman and Paul Murphy, which provide further critical perspectives on the work.

Anglo-Irish Modernism and the Maternal D. Stubbings, 2000-09-19 Anglo-Irish Modernism and the Maternal argues that a focus on the construction of mother figures in Irish culture illuminates the extraordinary achievement of the Irish modernists. Essentially, the seminal Irish modernists Moore, Joyce, Synge, Yeats and O'Casey resisted those mother figures sanctioned by cultural discourses, re-writing her in order to elude her. In this, they not only re-constituted language and representation, they accessed and re-figured their own creative selves.

Ritual Remembering, 2021-11-15 Most of the essays in Ritual Remembering: History, Myth and Politics in Anglo-Irish Drama in part or in whole frequently allude or directly concern themselves with the dramatic representation of the opposition or the collusion of myth and history and the uses and abuses of both. Equally, they celebrate and critically analyse the politics of the social conscience and social consciousness which pervades Irish drama in its rituals of forgetfulness and memory. Perhaps, myth is above all to be understood as the conscience and consciousness of history and politics; is the projection of that myth into present social action on the hustings, nowadays more frequently the television hustings at the ballot box, in writing and on the stage. Most of the articles in this volume revolve around these gravely portentous and ambivalent themes which nobody who is as much concerned with Anglo-Irish relations as with Anglo-Irish literature can disregard or evade.
