Bayne, Egbert K. Duursma, Ulrich Förstner, 2012-12-06 This preface is being written at a time of exceptional public interest in the North Sea following media head lines on toxic algal blooms the mass mortality of common seals and concern over pollution levels These headlines may suggest that pollution of the North Sea is a recent event This is not the case Although no data are available methods simply did not exist it is safe to assume that emission both into air and water of heavy metals already started to increase in the 19th century The growth of cities and introduction of sewer systems led to the discharge of raw sewage and sewage sludge The introduction of man made xenobiotic organic chemicals and their subsequent emission into the North Sea commenced before the second world war The shallower and coastal areas of the North Sea receive the highest concentrations of these pollutants Not unexpectedly these areas some Norwegian fjords the Dutch coast the German Bight show signs of ecosystem deterioration and eutrophication A certain percentage of the pollutants does not remain in the North Sea but is exported to the Atlantic The North Sea therefore contributes to the global input of pollutants to the world's oceans The major part of the pollutants accumulate in the North Sea and are incorporated in the bottom sediments Although they are out of sight they should not be out of mind Freshwater and Marine Aquarium, 1996 Everything Family Gd Disney/Universal Studios & Greater Orlando Jason Rich, 2004-09-17 Families can now Navigate the parks and the Orlando area Learn how to save money with helpful tips and planning information Plan ahead for age appropriate attractions and rides Know where to stay for convenient access to all the area's attractions Fishery Bulletin, 1975 A Site Characterization Study for the Hawaiian Islands Humpback Whale National Marine Sanctuary, 1994 Marine Pollution and Marine Waste Disposal Erman A.
