

A black and white photograph of a rustic timber building, possibly a cabin or shed, constructed from large, weathered logs. The building has a simple, rectangular structure with a dark, shadowed interior. A person is standing in the doorway, looking out. The background shows a body of water and a distant shoreline with trees. The overall mood is rugged and natural.

Rude Timber Buildings In Australia:

Rude Timber Buildings in Australia Philip Cox, John Maxwell Freeland, 1980 Cox Architects and Planners Philip Sutton Cox, 2008 This is a monograph on the work of Australian firm Cox Architects Planners Covers the period from 1960 to 2010 Featured projects are presented with photos drawings and text Provided by publisher Architectural Conservation in Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific Islands John Stubbs, William Chapman, Julia Gatley, Ross King, 2023-12-22 The fourth in a series that documents architectural conservation in different parts of the world Architectural Conservation in Australia New Zealand and the Pacific Islands National Experiences and Practice addresses cultural heritage protection in a region which comprises one third of the Earth's surface In response to local needs Australia New Zealand and the Pacific Islands have developed some of the most important and influential techniques legislation doctrine and theories in cultural heritage management in the world The evolution of the heritage protection ethos and contemporary architectural conservation practices in Australia and Oceania are discussed on a national and regional basis using ample illustrations and examples Accomplishments in architectural conservation are discussed in their national and international contexts with an emphasis on original developments solutions and contributions made to the overall field Enriched with essays contributed from fifty nine specialists and thought leaders in the field this book contains an extraordinary breadth and depth of research and synthesis on the why's and how's of cultural heritage conservation Its holistic approach provides an essential resource and reference for students academics researchers policy makers practitioners and all who are interested in conserving the built environment Function and Fantasy: Iron Architecture in the Long Nineteenth Century Paul Dobraszczyk, Peter Sealy, 2016-07-01 The introduction of iron and later steel construction and decoration transformed architecture in the nineteenth century While the structural employment of iron has been a frequent subject of study this book re-directs scholarly scrutiny on its place in the aesthetics of architecture in the long nineteenth century Together its eleven unique and original chapters chart for the first time the global reach of iron's architectural reception from the first debates on how iron could be incorporated into architecture's traditional aesthetics to the modernist cleaving of its structural and ornamental roles The book is divided into three sections Formations considers the rising tension between the desire to translate traditional architectural motifs into iron and the nascent feeling that iron buildings were themselves creating an entirely new field of aesthetic expression Exchanges charts the commercial and cultural interactions that took place between British iron foundries and clients in far flung locations such as Argentina Jamaica Nigeria and Australia Expressing colonial control as well as local agency iron buildings struck a balance between pre-fabricated functionalism and a desire to convey beauty value and often exoticism through ornament Transformations looks at the place of the aesthetics of iron architecture in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries a period in which iron ornament sought to harmonize wide social ambitions while offering the tantalizing possibility that iron architecture as a whole could transform the fundamental meanings of ornament

Taken together these chapters call for a re evaluation of modernism s supposedly rationalist interest in nineteenth century iron structures one that has potentially radical implications for the recent ornamental turn in contemporary architecture

Australia Harry Margalit,2019-11-15 This book tells the story of the architects and buildings that have defined Australia s architectural culture since the founding of the modern nation through Federation in 1901 That year marked the beginning of a search for better city forms and buildings to accommodate the changing realities of Australian life and to express an emerging distinctive and eventually confident Australian identity While Sydney and Melbourne were the settings for many of the major buildings all states and territories developed architectural traditions based on distinctive histories and climates Harry Margalit explores the flowering of these many architectural variants from the bid to create a model city in Canberra through the stylistic battles that opened a space for modernism to the idealism of postwar reconstruction and beyond to the new millennium Australia reveals a vibrant and influential culture of the built environment at its best when it matches civic idealism with the sensuality of a country of stunning light and landscapes

Design and the Vernacular Paul Memmott,John Ting,Tim O'Rourke,Marcel Vellinga,2023-11-16 Design and the Vernacular explores the intersection between vernacular architecture local cultures and modernity and globalization focussing on the vast and diverse global region of Australasia and Oceania The relevance and role of vernacular architecture in contemporary urban planning and architectural design are examined in the context of rapid political economic technological social and environmental changes including globalization exchanges of people finance material culture and digital technologies Sixteen chapters by architects designers and theorists including Indigenous writers explore key questions about the agency of vernacular architecture in shaping contemporary building and design practice These questions include How have Indigenous building traditions shaped modern building practices What can the study of vernacular architecture contribute to debates about sustainable development And how has vernacular architecture been used to argue for postcolonial modernisation and nation building and what has been the effect on heritage and conservation Such questions provide valuable case studies and lessons for architecture in other global regions and challenge assumptions about vernacular architecture being anachronistic and static instead demonstrating how it can shape contemporary architecture nation building and cultural identities

Buildings in Wood Will Pryce,2005 From the very beginning of architecture long before the invention of masonry buildings were constructed of wood With its unique qualities of form color and structure wood is the most reliable building material at the core of architecture This epic history is the first comprehensive survey of the use of wood in architecture throughout the ages The book is organized both chronologically and geographically It surveys works from the oldest heritage of wooden buildings Kyoto s Buddhist temples and Scandinavia s pagan inspired stave churches to the latest cutting edge designs proving that wood is on the rise as the preferred material in these ecologically conscious times No region of the world with a native tradition of building with wood is left out In North America the book demonstrates the European origins of New England s clapboards and saltboxes and later shows how such sophisticated California architects as Greene Greene or Bernard Maybeck could blend age old traditions of the Far East and Switzerland with a Pacific Coast sense of novelty and whimsy Spectacular and diverse photographs highlight the architectural masterpieces of wooden architecture throughout the world illustrating that wood is a building material with a deep history as well as a vibrant future Who's who in Australia ,2007 Contemporary Architects Muriel Emanuel,2016-01-23 The Archaeology and Architecture of Farm Buildings at Saumarez Station, Armidale, New South Wales Graham Connah,2021 This book is an analysis of nineteenth and early twentieth century farm buildings recorded at three rural properties in New South Wales during the 1980s The Australian House Balwant Singh Saini,Ray Joyce,2002 The traditional timber house of tropical northern Australia is a superb form of vernacular domestic architecture and this book illuminates its unique heritage aspects Australian Architects--Philip Cox Philip Sutton Cox,1984 Australian Folklore ,1998 APAIS, Australian Public Affairs Information Service ,1973 Vol for 1963 includes section Current Australian serials a subject list Medium Density Housing in Australia Bruce Judd,John Dean (B. App. Sc.),1984 A Bibliography of Australian Folklore, 1790 to 1990 David S. Hulst,1995 Contains only publications culled from Ferguson and the Australian national bibliography and its predecessors Fashioning Australia's Forests John Dargavel,1995 For more than twenty years Australia's forests have been the subject of angry controversy Industry groups timber towns professional foresters trade unions economists developers and environmentalists have all voiced different proposals based on mutually exclusive values Major battles have aroused intense passions and influenced elections But the book not only covers recent events it reviews forest management from Aboriginal times demonstrating that the forests and our conceptions of them are socially constructed Dr Dargavel weaves together the story of industrial development and forest use with the slow acceptance of the case for forest conservancy He shows how various resource regimes evolved and how they fashioned the forests in different ways ecologically spatially and socially He then describes the challenges to these established patterns since the 1970s industrial restructuring woodchip exports unsustainable harvesting and the rise of the environmental movement The book concludes with the prospects for the forests their industries and workers in a highly uncertain future Australians must choose between travelling the low road of apathetic submission to market forces and ignorance and taking a long hard high road towards sustainable development in which both social and environmental needs are taken seriously The issues discussed will interest those involved in forestry historical geography and environmental sciences history and politics Philip Cox Jennifer Towndrow,1991 Who's who in Australasia and the Far East ,1991 Pinpointer ,1970
