Fruits of Her Plume Helena Goscilo, 1993 A collection of 13 essays of literary and gender issue analysis engaging some of the blossoming literary output of women in the glasnost and post glasnost era writings that also happen to be some of the most colorful and thought provoking examples of recent Russian culture The theoretical and critical positions of the contributors are refreshingly diverse Paper edition unseen 18 95 Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Written for the Drawer Brett Winestock, 2024 Russian Jewish writer Leonid Tsypkin 1926-82 a doctor by trade wrote primarily for the drawer fearing professional consequences if he were to publish his fiction Despite Tsypkin's almost complete lack of readership during his lifetime his work has received international posthumous recognition with Susan Sontag calling his work among the most beautiful exalting and original achievements of a century's worth of fiction Tsypkin's autobiographical writing explored the impossibility of being both a Russian writer and a Soviet Jew employing indirection and referentiality In the first book length appraisal of Tsypkin and his work Brett Winestock considers Tsypkin's fiction as part of a transnational literary response to the horrors of the twentieth century a reception that helps explain his much belated international readership Through close readings of Tsypkin's work in the context of late Soviet cultural worlds Winestock makes an important contribution to studies of Jewish Soviet writing and identity Archives of Russia Seven Years After Patricia Kennedy Grimsted, 1998 Aspects of Modern Russian and Czech Literature Arnold Barrett McMillin, 1989

Chronicles in Stone Victoria Donovan, 2019-11-15 Chronicles in Stone is a study of the powerful and pervasive myth of the Russian Northwest its role in forming Soviet and Russian identities and its impact on local communities Combining detailed archival research participant observation and oral history work it explores the transformation of three northwestern Russian towns from provincial backwaters into the symbolic homelands of the Soviet and Russian nations The book's central argument is that the Soviet state exploited the cultural heritage of the Northwest to craft patriotic narratives of the people's genius heroism and strength that could bind the nation together after 1945 Through sustained engagement with local voices it reveals the ways these narratives were internalized revised and resisted by the communities living in the region Donovan provides an alternative lens through which to view the rise of Russian patriotic consciousness in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries adding a valuable regional dimension to our knowledge of Russian nation building and identity politics

Slavic Review, 1988 Russia and the Classics Zara M. Torlone, 2009-04-23 This important study the first in a new series on Classical Diaspora explores the reception of classical antiquity in Russian poetry with a particular focus on the writings of several significant twentieth century poets Innokentii Annenskii Viacheslav Ivanov Marina Tsvetaeva Osip Mandelstam and Joseph Brodsky These poets' engagement with the classics is analysed within the wider context of Russia's relationship with Greco-Roman heritage as a gateway to European culture The earlier phase of the development of classical reception in Russian poetry is traced from Antioch Kantemir and Mikhailo Lomonosov to Alexander Pushkin Thus the book offers a concise chronology of Russian poetry's self construction as a legitimate European heir to the legacy of Greece and Rome. The Russian poetic reception of classical literature has its own distinctive features such as a preoccupation with mythological tragedy and with the reception of Ovid's poetry of exile setting it apart from the traditions and movements associated with Western European classicism. This fascinating study combines historicist scholarship with a sophisticated alertness to recent developments in reception theory producing a compelling account of a hitherto neglected aspect of the classical tradition.
