Rural And Farming Systems Analysis European Perspectives:

Rural and Farming Systems Analysis John Barry Dent, Murray J McGregor, 1994 The Farming Systems Research and Extension approach adopts a multidimensional perspective and has been widely used to bring about rural change in many developing countries The approach has traditionally been less used in Europe where research has tended to concentrate on increasing production However with the current emphasis within the European Union on restricting surpluses and on environmental and social protection circumstances are more appropriate to the farming systems approach Changes to rural infrastructures and agricultural production in Central and Eastern Europe may also favor the approach This book is the first to define the issues of farming systems research as they might be applied within a European context and extended to rural systems as a whole Consisting of 27 chapters it is divided into five parts covering conceptual background contextual setting alternative production systems understanding farm households and systems methodologies Contributions are included from the UK Ireland France Germany Spain Portugal Denmark Netherlands Finland Estonia and Greece The book is aimed at a wide range of readers in agricultural economics and rural studies Farming Systems Research into the 21st Century: The New Dynamic Ika Darnhofer, David Gibbon, Benoît Dedieu, 2012-05-30 Farming Systems Research has three core characteristics it builds on systems thinking it depends on the close collaboration between social and biophysical sciences and it relies on participation to build co learning processes Farming Systems Research posits that to contribute towards sustainable rural development both interdisciplinary collaborations and local actor engagement are needed Together they allow for changes in understanding and changes in practices This book gives an overview of the insights generated in 20 years of Farming Systems Research It retraces the emergence and development of Farming Systems Research in Europe summarises the state of the art for key areas and provides an outlook on new explorations especially those tackling the dynamic nature of farming systems and their interaction with the natural environment and the context of action Rural and Farming Systems Analyses Werner Doppler, Alex Koutsouris, 1999 Alternative Farming Systems, Economic Aspects Karl Schneider, 1996 Understanding Options for Agricultural Production G.Y. Tsuji, G. Hoogenboom, P.K. Thornton, 2013-03-14 The first premise of this book is that farmers need access to options for improving their situation In agricultural terms these options might be management alternatives or different crops to grow that can stabilize or increase household income that reduce soil degradation and dependence on off farm inputs or that exploit local market opportunities Farmers need a facilitating environment in which affordable credit is available if needed in which policies are conducive to judicious management of natural resources and in which costs and prices of production are stable Another key ingredient of this facilitating environment is information an understanding of which options are viable how these operate at the farm level and what their impact may be on the things that farmers perceive as being important The second premise is that systems analysis and simulation have an important role to play in fostering this understanding of options traditional field experimentation being time consuming and costly This book summarizes the activities of the International Benchmark Sites Network for Agrotechnology Transfer IBSNAT project an international initiative funded by the United States Agency for International Development USAID IBSNAT was an attempt to demonstrate the effectiveness of understanding options through systems analysis and simulation for the ultimate benefit of farm households in the tropics and subtropics The idea for the book was first suggested at one of the last IBSNAT group meetings held at the University of Hawaii in 1993
