"Sesame Street" and the Reform of Children's Television Robert W. Morrow, 2008-12-08 An accessible well researched introduction to the people and principles behind the show's creation Essential Choice An Outstanding Academic Title of the Year By the late 1960s more than a few critics of American culture groused about the condition of television programming and in particular the quality and content of television shows for children In the eyes of the reform minded commercial television crassly exploited young viewers its violence and tastelessness served no higher purpose than the bottom line The Children's Television Workshop CTW and its fresh approach to writing and producing programs for kids emerged from this growing concern Sesame Street CTW's flagship hour long show aimed to demonstrate how television could help all preschoolers including low income urban children prepare for first grade In this engaging study Robert W Morrow explores the origins and inner workings of CTW how the workshop in New York scripted and designed Sesame Street and how the show became both a model for network television and a thorn in its side Through extensive archival research and a systematic study of sample programs from Sesame Street's first ten seasons Morrow tells the story of Sesame Street's creation the ideas techniques organization and funding behind it its place in public discourse and its ultimate and unfortunate failure as an agent of commercial television reform An insightful look at American children's television Library Journal

Sesame Street and the Reform of Children's Television Robert Wallace Morrow, 2001 Every American an Innovator Matthew Wisnioski, 2025-05-13 A landmark cultural history that reveals how the relentless pursuit of innovation has transformed our society our institutions and our inner selves For half a century innovation served as a universal good in an age of fracture That consensus is cracking While the imperative to innovate for a better future continues to fuel systemic change around the world critics now assail innovation culture as an engine of inequality or accuse its do gooders of woke groupthink What happened Drawing on a decade of research Every American an Innovator by Matthew Wisnioski investigates how innovation a once obscure academic term became ingrained in our institutions our education and our beliefs about ourselves Wisnioski argues that innovation culture did not spring from the digital revolution nor can it be boiled down to heroic entrepreneurs or villainous capitalists Instead he reveals the central role of a new class of experts in spreading toolkits and mindsets from the cornfields of 1940s Iowa to Silicon Valley tech giants today This group of engineers philosophers bureaucrats and business leaders posited that innovators were society's most important change agents and remade the nation in their image The innovation culture they built transcended partisan divisions and made strange bedfellows Wisnioski shows how Kennedy era policymakers inspired President Nixon's dream of a Nobel Prize for innovators how anti military professors built the first university incubators for entrepreneurs how radical feminists became millionaire consultants how demands for a rust belt manufacturing renaissance inspired theories of a global creative class how programs that encouraged girls and minority children to pursue innovative lives changed the nature of childhood play and why the innovation consensus is now in dispute Television and American Culture Jason Mittell, 2010 Television and American Culture An Overview introduces students to the study of television by looking at American television from a cultural perspective The book is written for intermediate undergraduate and beginning graduate students for a range of television studies courses Specifically Mittell discusses television within the following contexts the economics of the television industry television's role within American democracy the formal attributes of a variety of television genres television as a site of gender and racial identity formation television's role in everyday life and the medium's technological and social impacts The topical arrangement and comprehensive scope of the book differs from other television textbooks arguing that we must incorporate a range of economic political aesthetic and sociological perspectives to fully comprehend the medium of television Making Faces, Making Race Heidi Louise Cooper, 2007 Reinventing Public Service Communication Petros Iosifidis, 2010-02-10 European Public Service Broadcasters PSBs are struggling to come to terms with a number of issues the Europeanisation and globalisation of media ownership production programming and distribution the marketisation of media output technological convergence and audience fragmentation While the prevailing nation state frameworks for cultural and political identity are gradually fading some PSBs are finding it hard to serve and promote national culture and identity and to meet the challenge of growing uncertainties within a cosmopolitan Europe At the same time PSBs are considered to be an important way of helping European citizens make sense of such developments by bearing traces of collective identities and therefore creating an expanded pan European cultural space Can PSBs be multi cultural and mobilise a new sense of Europeanness while at the same time making the transformation into Public Service Media PSM and delivering public service content that will meet audience needs in a digital age The scholars in this volume covering mainly European countries but also looking comparatively at the US Canada Australia and New Zealand discuss the contemporary relevance of PSM as a cultural and political enterprise and as a forum in which a variety of cultural demands can best be met Library Journal, 2005 Bildung und Erziehung, 1972 Children and the Faces of Television Edward L.
