Frederick Thomas Jane

A decorative red circular graphic element, resembling a stylized lens or a light flare, is positioned to the right of the author's name. It has a soft, glowing red center that fades into a lighter red and then into the white background of the slide.

Sevastopol On Photographs Of War:

Sevastopol William Allen, 1997 Sevastopol's Wars Mungo Melvin CB OBE, 2017-05-18 Sevastopol's Wars is the first book in any language to cover the full history of Russia's historic Crimean naval citadel from its founding through to the current tensions that threaten the region Founded by Catherine the Great the maritime city of Sevastopol has been fought over for centuries Crucial battles of the Crimean War were fought on the hills surrounding the city and the memory of this stalwart defence inspired those who fruitlessly battled the Germans during World War II Twice the city has faced complete obliteration yet twice it has risen phoenix like from the ashes In this groundbreaking volume award winning author Mungo Melvin explores how Sevastopol became the crucible of conflict over three major engagements the Crimean War the Russian Civil War and World War II witnessing the death and destruction of countless armies yet creating the indomitable spirit of Sevastopol By weaving together first hand interviews detailed operational reports and battle analysis Melvin creates a rich tapestry of history

Memory, Conflict and New Media Ellen Rutten, Julie Fedor, Vera Zvereva, 2013-04-12 This book examines the online memory wars in post Soviet states where political conflicts take the shape of heated debates about the recent past and especially World War II and Soviet socialism To this day former socialist states face the challenge of constructing national identities producing national memories and relating to the Soviet legacy Their pasts are principally intertwined changing readings of history in one country generate fierce reactions in others In this transnational memory war digital media form a pivotal discursive space one that provides speakers with radically new commemorative tools Uniting contributions by leading scholars in the field Memory Conflict and New Media is the first book length publication to analyse how new media serve as a site of political and national identity building in post socialist states The book also examines how the construction of online identity is irreversibly affected by thinking about the past in this geopolitical domain By highlighting post socialist memory's digital mediations and digital memory's transcultural scope the volume succeeds in a twofold aim to deepen and refine both post socialist memory theory and digital memory studies This book will be of much interest to students of media studies post Soviet studies Eastern European Politics memory studies and International Relations in general

A War of Images Stephen M. Norris, 2006 The lubok a broadside or poster played an important role in Russia's cultural history Evolving as a medium for communication with a largely illiterate population the popular prints were adapted to express political propaganda Stephen Norris examines the use of such prints to stir patriotic fervor during times of war from Napoleon's failed attempt at conquering Russia to Hitler's invasion Norris shows how visual images of patriotism and expressions of the Russian spirit changed over time yet remained similar The lubok produced during Russia's modern wars consistently featured the same key elements the Russian peasant the Cossack and a representation of the Russian spirit When Russia was victorious occasionally the tsar figured into the imagery but by the beginning of the 20th century ethnic identity had replaced dynastic representations of Russian nationhood After the Revolutions of 1917 Bolshevik and Soviet leaders appropriated the traditional elements of the wartime lubok to promote their vision of the new socialist state The political power of lubok imagery did not end with the Bolsheviks adaptations During World War II political posters similar to those of the tsarist era reemerged to express and to reinforce Russia s culture of patriotism and strength Amply illustrated A War of Images is the first comprehensive study of how popular prints helped to construct national identity in Russia over a period of more than a century Readers interested in Russian art history and culture will find its insights intriguing

Imperial Russian Navy Frederick Thomas Jane,1899 British Artists and War Peter Harrington,1993 British artists and war examines in detail the artistic inspiration and response to wars throughout the eighteenth nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The second part of British artists and war is a unique comprehensive catalogue of more than 800 surviving oil paintings depicting soldiers in battle and on campaign in public and private collections around the world including exhibition and provenance details when known Dust jacket flap 150th Anniversary of the Crimean War ,2006

All the World's Fighting Ships Frederick Thomas Jane,1920 Royal Photograph Gallery ,1893 Image ,1974 War Photography Joelle Bolloch,Musée d'Orsay,2004 Showcasing historic images from the photography collections of the Musée d'Orsay this work presents evocative selections of early war photography including pictures taken by photographers and by soldiers themselves Crimea Orlando Figes,2011-06-02 The terrible conflict that dominated the mid 19th century the Crimean War killed at least 800 000 men and pitted Russia against a formidable coalition of Britain France and the Ottoman Empire It was a war for territory provoked by fear that if the Ottoman Empire were to collapse then Russia could control a huge swathe of land from the Balkans to the Persian Gulf But it was also a war of religion driven by a fervent populist and ever more ferocious belief by the Tsar and his ministers that it was Russia s task to rule all Orthodox Christians and control the Holy Land Orlando Figes major new book reimagines this extraordinary war in which the stakes could not have been higher and which was fought with a terrible mixture of ferocity and incompetence It was both a recognisably modern conflict the first to be extensively photographed the first to employ the telegraph the first newspaper war and a traditional one with illiterate soldiers amateur officers and huge casualties caused by disease Drawing on a huge range of fascinating sources Figes also gives the lived experience of the war from that of the ordinary British soldier in his snow filled trench to the haunted gloomy narrow figure of Tsar Nicholas himself as he vows to take on the whole world in his hunt for religious salvation The PhotoHistorian ,1998 A Century of Photographs, 1846-1946 Renata V. Shaw,1980 Articles originally published in the Quarterly journal of the Library of Congress prints and photos division The Battle for Crimea, 1941-1944 Anthony Tucker-Jones,2016-08-31 The selection of over 150 rare wartime photographs in this volume in Pen Swords Images of War series offers a graphic visual record of the dramatic and bloody battles fought for the Crimea during the Second World War They show every grim aspect of the fighting and reflect in many ways the ruthless character of the struggle across the entire Eastern Front The German led Axis forces took eight months to conquer the Crimea in 1941 2 the Soviet defenders of the fortified city port of Sevastopol held out against repeated assaults for 250 days In 1944 after the course of the war had turned against the Wehrmacht and their allies the city was liberated by the Red Army but only after over 120 000 Axis troops had been evacuated across the Black Sea Naval operations involving the Soviet Black Sea Fleet and the Romanian Royal Navy are covered in the book as is the battle in the air between the Luftwaffe and the Red Air Force But perhaps the most memorable photographs give an insight into the ordinary soldiers experience of the fighting and show the enormous material damage the conflict left behind

War in the Crimea Ian Fletcher, Natalia Ishchenko, 2008 On March 28 1854 Queen Victoria's government announced that Britain had declared war on Russia Few conflicts have provoked as much debate as The Crimean War with details right down to the name and date of it remaining discussion points for historians This illustrated history gives a unique and exciting pictorial insight into the war presenting illustrations from one of the early pioneers of photography Roger Fenton alongside artist William Simpson the Russian painters Timms and Rubio and artists from The Illustrated London News and Punch
