Southern Irish Loyatism, 1912-1949 Brian Hughes, Conor Morrissey, 2020-10-22 This book brings together new research on loyalism in the 26 counties that would become the Irish Free State It covers a range of topics and experiences including the Third Home Rule crisis in 1912 the revolutionary period partition independence and Irish participation in the British armed and colonial service up to the declaration of the Republic in 1949 The essays gathered here examine who southern Irish loyalists were what loyalism meant to them how they expressed their loyalism their responses to Irish independence and their experiences afterwards The collection offers fresh insights and new perspectives on the Irish Revolution and the early years of southern independence based on original archival research It addresses issues of particular historiographical and political interest during the ongoing Decade of Centenaries including revolutionary violence sectarianism political allegiance and identity and the Irish border but rather than ceasing its coverage in 1922 or 1923 this book like the lives with which it is concerned continues into the first decades of southern Irish independence List of contributors Frank Barry Elaine Callinan Jonathan Cherry Seamus Cullen Ian d Alton Sean Gannon Katherine Magee Alan McCarthy Pat McCarthy Daniel Purcell Joseph Quinn Brian M Walker Fionnuala Walsh Donald Wood Irish Women in the First World War Era Jennifer Redmond, Elaine Farrell, 2020-05-21 This book is the first collection of essays to focus exclusively on Irish women's experiences in the First World War period 1914-18 across the island of Ireland contextualising

the wartime realities of women's lives in a changing political landscape. The essays consider experiences ranging from the everyday realities of poverty and deprivation to the contributions made to the war effort by women through philanthropy and by working directly with refugees. Gendered norms and assumptions about women's behaviour are critically analysed from the rhetoric surrounding separation, women and their use of alcohol to the navigation of public spaces and the attempts to deter women from perceived immoral behaviour. Political life is also examined by leading scholars in the field, including accounts from women on both sides of the Irish question and the impact the war had on their activism and ambitions. Finally, new light is shed on the experiences of women working in munitions factories around Ireland and the complexity of this work in the Irish context is explored. Throughout it is asserted that while there were many commonalities in women's experiences throughout the British and Irish Isles at this time, the particular political context of Ireland added a different and in many respects an unexamined dimension. This book was originally published as a special issue of Women's History Review.

Parnell and His Island George Moore, 2004. Moore spares neither landlords nor tenants, priests or nationalists in his narrative. Lost Mansions J. Raven, 2015-04-29. This provocative volume stimulates debate about lost heritage by examining the history of the hundreds of great houses demolished in Britain and Ireland in the twentieth century. Seven lively essays debate our understanding of what is meant by loss and how it relates to popular conceptions of the great house.

Catholics of Consequence Ciaran O'Neill, 2014-06-13. For as far back as school registers can take us, the most prestigious education available to any Irish child was to be found outside Ireland. Catholics of Consequence traces for the first time the transnational education careers and lives of more than two thousand Irish boys and girls who attended Catholic schools in England, France, Belgium and elsewhere in the second half of the nineteenth century. There was a long tradition of Irish Anglicans, Protestants and Catholics sending their children abroad for the majority of their formative years. However, as the cultural nationalism of the Irish revival took root at the end of the nineteenth century, Irish Catholics who sent their children to school in Britain were accused of a pro-Britishness that crystallized into still recognisable terms of insult such as West Briton, Castle Catholic, Squireen and Seoinin. This concept has an enduring resonance in Ireland, but very few publications have ever interrogated it. Catholics of Consequence endeavours to analyse the education and subsequent lives of the Irish children that received this type of transnational education. It also tells the story of elite education in Ireland, where schools such as Clongowes Wood College and Castleknock College were rooted in the continental Catholic tradition but also looked to public schools in England as exemplars. Taken together, the book tells the story of an Irish Catholic elite at once integrated and segregated within what was then the most powerful state in the world. The National Union Catalog, Pre-1956
