Bronislaw Malinowski

Sexual Lives Of Savages:

The Sexual Life of Savages in North-western Melanesia Bronislaw Malinowski, 2002 The Sexual Life of Savages in North Western Melanesia contains ethnographic data that attempts to establish that the Freudian Oedipus complex is not universal This important work is his second in the trilogy on the Trobrianders with the other two being Argonauts of the Western Pacific 1922 and Coral Gardens and Their Magic 1935 In the preface Malinowski says that sexuality dominates in fact almost every aspect of culture Malinowski provides a detailed description of the social organization of sexuality social rites partner choice et al tracing the Trobriand lifecycle from birth through puberty marriage and death In further chapters the parent child relationship of the Trobrianders is described with details of their complex matrilineal relationship structure in which the biological parentage is ignored Publisher's website

the savage mind this subject has always been veiled in mystery The mystery has been fascinating or sombre according to the general attitude to savagery that happened to prevail In the eighteenth century it was fascinating That century especially in its French mode virtually discovered what is loosely and incorrectly termed Primitive Man and found his finest embodiment in the new and Paradisiacal world of America and Oceania These French voyagers and missionaries though there were some notable but more sober minded English and other sailors among them were delighted and intoxicated as these strange manners and customs often so gracious and fantastic opened out before their astonished vision

Irregular Connections Andrew P. Lyons, Harriet Lyons, 2004-12-01 Irregular Connections traces the anthropological study of sex from the eighteenth century to the present focusing primarily on social and cultural anthropology and the work done by researchers in North America and Great Britain Andrew P and Harriet D Lyons argue that the sexuality of those whom anthropologists studied has been conscripted into Western discourses about sex including debates about prostitution homosexuality divorce premarital relations and hierarchies of gender class and race Because sex is the most private of activities and often carries a high emotional charge it is peculiarly difficult to investigate At times such as the late 1920s and the last decade of the twentieth century sexuality has been a central concern of anthropologists and focal in their theoretical formulations At other times the study of sexuality has been marginalized The anthropology of sex has sometimes been one of the main faces that anthropology presented to the public often causing resentment within the discipline Andrew P Lyons is an associate professor of anthropology at Wilfrid Laurier University Harriet D Lyons is an associate professor of anthropology at the University of Waterloo
