Handbook of Demonstrations and Activities in the Teaching of Psychology: Physiological-comparative, perception, learning, cognitive, and developmental Mark E. Ware, David E. Johnson, 1996

These books provide an invaluable reference for teachers of psychology. The plethora of teaching strategies and techniques discussed should serve to improve the quality of their teaching. For those who teach high school, college, and graduate students in psychology, education, and the social sciences, these volumes present immediate practical applications and rich sources of ideas. They contain the collective experiences of teachers who have successfully dealt with students' difficulty in mastering important concepts about human behavior. Volume 1 addresses teaching strategies for courses that make up the core of most psychology curricula: introductory psychology, statistics, research methods, and the history of psychology. Volume 2 discusses teaching physiology, perception, learning, memory, and developmental psychology. Volume 3 deals with teaching personality, abnormal clinical counseling, and social psychology. Each volume contains a table listing the articles in that volume and identifying the primary and secondary courses in which each demonstration can be used.

The Educational Priority Policy in the Netherlands M. P. C. van der Werf, 1995

Beginning School Richard M. Clifford, Gisele M. Crawford, 2008-11-29

The United States is at a pivotal crossroads in determining the educational experiences of children aged 3 through 8. To help educators set goals and design effective policies, early childhood experts Clifford and Crawford provide a concise history of early education and care in the United States and invite readers to consider early schooling in a global perspective. Distinguished scholars from five countries that value early education as an integral part of life-long learning—France, Germany, Japan, New Zealand, and Sweden—examine the evolution of early childhood practices in their countries, providing invaluable insight and guidance as we move toward fully serving children and families in our schools. This volume identifies common themes and challenges among six economically advantaged countries and contrasts their different approaches to educating young children. Features international contributors that identify the critical issues and decisions from their own countries' perspectives. Describes the social forces that are leading the United States toward universal access to school beginning at age 3. International contributors: Vronique Francis (France), Michael Gaffney (New Zealand), Inge Johansson (Sweden), Hans Guenther Rossbach (Germany), and Reiko Uzuhashi (Japan).
