

2002 HIGHLIGHTS AND 2003 PREDICTIONS

KATHY CHRISTIE

STATE policies enacted in 2002 rode an undercurrent of cultural pride, an appreciation for what is significant, and an ever-increasing understanding that education is responsible for planting, nourishing, and maintaining the seeds of a healthy democracy. While state economies faltered, state legislators, state boards, chief state school officers, governors, and special committees hunkered down to attend to those details of governing over which they had influence and into which they sought to inject improvement.

In the past 12 months or so, state legislatures enacted nearly 2,000 significant education bills and policies. Over 100 of those bills addressed aspects of educational accountability; two dozen required or encouraged patriotic exercises or respect for the flag (18 of those passed after September 11, and one was vetoed); nearly 70 related to early learning; almost 50 bills were concerned with student health or nutrition; about two dozen affected school boards; more than 20 adjusted bilingual education provisions; leadership accounted for 30 bills; 85 addressed school safety; 47 adjusted state special education laws; at least 130 aimed at improving the quality of teaching; and nearly 200 dealt with how we pay for schools and the learning that occurs there.

At the Education Commission of the States (ECS), we break out provisions of omnibus bills into separate subject-related components for tracking purposes, but we also try not to track bills that contain only technical adjustments or "housekeeping" provisions. That said, here are our numbers for significant education provisions passed in the most-active states: Maryland, 179; California, 161; Florida, 166; Arizona, 99; Colorado, 87; Virginia and Kentucky, 81; Iowa, 66; Mississippi, 60; Alabama, 54; Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Louisiana, Maine, New York, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Washington were all in the forties.

ACCOUNTABILITY

Here's a rundown of what we saw on the accountability front:

- attempts to make sure that the means by which schools are measured are accurate and measure the right things;
- a growing understanding that interventions are not easy and not always effective and that we need to discover the best leverage points for improvement (more emphasis on what's working, what is not, and why);
- growth in state infrastructures necessary to better collect and report data for schools, students, and districts; and
- more careful analysis of the capacity of states and districts to provide and sustain assistance.

"We rely on its accuracy."

"Results are easy to interpret."

"It's the best value for our limited budget."

Predictions 2003 And You:

Statistics Ann E. Watkins, Richard L. Scheaffer, George W. Cobb, 2011 Statistics 2nd Edition teaches statistics with a modern data analytic approach that uses graphing calculators and statistical software. It allows more emphasis to be put on statistical concepts and data analysis rather than following recipes for calculations. This gives readers a more realistic understanding of both the theoretical and practical applications of statistics, giving them the ability to master the subject.

4th and Long the Odds Sean Stellato, 2005-04. Your too small those were familiar words he heard from the critics growing up. With his blend of charisma and unparalleled work ethic, overachieving talent and fierce determination, Sean Stellato defines the underdog. There is so much I have learned throughout my career that I am looking forward to giving back to today's youth. Now in the same committed way he approached the game, Sean takes us into his life and onto the field. With his faith and detail, he talks about the influence of his parents, the work ethic they instilled in him, constant love they always displayed towards him at a young age, his true inspiration and guidance of significant others that kept him on course to conquer his dreams. The commitment he has made to God has saved him and shaped him into the man he is today. He takes us back to Salem, Massachusetts, a city rich in history where he broke several school records and overcame tremendous adversity. A couple of particular acts that almost cost him his life. He talks about his college career playing two Division I sports and finding time to get it done in the classroom as well as finding the love of his life. He reveals his struggles in the land of strictly business. He gives the reader a preview of one of the fastest growing sports in the USA, Arena Football. What are the odds of playing at the professional level? The 2008 Budget Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Treasury

Committee, 2008. This report examines the forecasts and measures contained in the 2008 Budget HC 455 session 2007-08. ISBN 9780102953336. The Treasury's lower forecasts for economic growth in 2008 and 2009 are above the average of independent forecasters, suggesting that the Treasury may have given insufficient weight to the risks of continued financial market turbulence and that some of the UK economy's characteristics that have proven beneficial in past crises, rapidly rising residential property prices, close links with the US and an increasing reliance on the financial services industry, for example, might prove to be conduits through which the current problems in global financial markets are transmitted to the UK real economy. The further weakening of the forecasts for the public finances is noted, and it appears premature for the Treasury to state that it is on course to meet the golden rule in the next economic cycle, given the lack of an end date for the previous economic cycle. Measures on child poverty are welcomed, but there is a need for a clear explanation on deployment of resources to ensure that the target to halve child poverty by 2010-11 will be achieved. The abolition of the 10 pence rate of income tax will most affect those under 65 years of age in childless households earning under 18,500. The Committee feels this group is an unreasonable target for raising additional tax revenues. The Treasury should commission research into whether the withdrawal of the 10 pence income tax band and high marginal deduction rates are creating disincentives that could frustrate the Government's welfare to work objectives The Committee also calls for a national Saving Gateway targeted at low income households and more consideration of tax changes on the middle and lower income groups of non domiciled taxpayers Dr. Dobb's Journal ,2004 World Explorer Europe and Russia 3 Edition Student Edition 2003c ,2002
