Preliminary Discourse on the Study of Natural Philosophy \(Classic Reprint\) John Frederick William Herschel, 2017-11-30 Excerpt from Preliminary Discourse on the Study of Natural Philosophy. The pleasures of fancy and imagination and social converse man is constituted a speculative being; he contemplates the world and the objects around him not with a passive indifferent gaze, as a set of phenomena in which he has no further interest than as they affect his immediate situation and can be rendered subservient to his comfort; but as a system disposed with order and design. He approves and feels the highest admiration for the harmony of its parts, the skill and efficiency of its contrivances. Some of these which he can best trace and understand he attempts to imitate and finds that to a certain extent though rudely and imperfectly he can succeed in others that although he comprehends the nature of the contrivance he is totally destitute of all means of imitation. While in others again and those evidently the most important though he sees the effect produced yet the means by which it is done are alike beyond his ken.
