Development and Difficulties in Monolingual and Bilingual Chinese Children Xi Chen, Qiuying Wang, Yang Cathy Luo, 2013-11-04 This volume explores Chinese reading development focusing on children in Chinese societies and bilingual Chinese speaking children in Western societies The book is structured around four themes psycholinguistic study of reading reading disability bilingual and biliteracy development and Chinese children's literature It discusses issues that are pertinent to improving language and literacy development and complex cognitive linguistic and socio cultural factors that underlie language and literacy development In addition the book identifies instructional practices that can enhance literacy development and academic achievement This volume offers an integrative framework of Chinese reading and deepens our understanding of the intricate processes that underlie Chinese children's literacy development It promotes research in reading Chinese and celebrates the distinguished and longstanding career of Richard C Anderson Psychology Library Editions: Psychology of Reading Various Authors, 2021-03-01 The psychology of reading investigates the process by which readers extract visual information from written text and make sense of it Psychology Library Editions Psychology of Reading 11 Volumes brings together as one set or individual volumes a small series of previously out of print titles originally published between 1980 and 1995 The set includes topics such as dyslexia and the relationship between speech and reading

Speech and Reading Beatrice de Gelder, Jose Morais, 2017-11-01 Originally published in 1995 this collection of papers introduced a new dimension to the understanding of reading by focusing on the relation between spoken and written language processing New perspectives on speech and reading are introduced by highlighting aspects of the two linguistic skills that had received little attention in the past The comparative perspective adopted in this collection presents an innovative focus on speech and the acquisition of alphabetic reading skill Major new sources of evidence are discussed like reading in nonconventional input modalities braille reading and speech processing in lip reading Contributors also discuss the reading process in non alphabetic orthographies and the specifics of the reading acquisition problem in logographic or mixed writing systems like Chinese and Japanese and their relations to underlying speech representations A central concern of all chapters is the role of phonological processes in different modalities and writings systems and at different stages in the reading acquisition process Drawing on expertise of the contributors the book presents a novel and varied view of the achievements the promises and the challenges facing the researcher once the intimate link between speech and reading comes to the foreground

Teaching and Learning Chinese Jinfa Cai, Jianguo Chen, Chuang Wang, 2010-07-01 The book is linked to the annual theme of the 2008 CAERDA International Conference with contributing authors serving as keynote speakers invited panelists paper presenters as well as specialists and educators in the field The book provides a most comprehensive description of and a theoretically wellinformed and a scholarly cogent account of teaching and learning Chinese in general and in the United States in particular It examines a wide range of important issues in Chinese teaching and learning current state in teaching Chinese as a Second Language TCSL in the United States US national standards for learning foreign languages K 12 policy making about how to meet the growing demand for Chinese language and cultural education with regard to a national coordination of efforts professional teacher training in terms of the quantity and quality of Chinese language teachers at all levels promotion of early language learning characteristics of Chinese pedagogy aspects of Chinese linguistics methods and methodology in teaching TCSL techniques and technology in Chinese language education curriculum and instruction in TCSL cultural aspects of teaching Chinese as a Second Language issues in Chinese pedagogy development of Chinese as a Heritage Language HL and the issue of cultural identity for bilingual multilingual learners particularly bilingual multilingual children testing and evaluation in TCSL Chinese literacy and reading approaches to instruction and program design etc

Literacy and the Second Language Learner JoAnn Hammadou Sullivan, 2002-04-01 The field of second language learning research has grown rapidly in recent years Educators have become increasingly aware that pedagogical knowledge varies significantly from one subject domain to the next and that findings from educational research in one domain are not necessarily applicable to the next Researchers in second language learning are adding to our understandings of secondlanguage specific pedagogy There exists a need therefore for an outlet for these ever improving understandings of this content specific pedagogy The new book series Research in Second Language Learning will provide just such an outlet The series invites articles from all methodological approaches to research The series will promote a research based approach to the decision making process in second language teaching learning

Learning to Read Across Languages Keiko Koda, Annette M. Zehler, 2008-03-03 This book systematically examines how learning to read occurs in diverse languages and in so doing explores how literacy is learned in a second language by learners who have achieved at least basic reading skills in their first language As a consequence of rapid globalization such learners are a large and growing segment of the school population worldwide and an increasing number of schools are challenged by learners from a wide variety of languages and with distinct prior literacy experiences To succeed academically these learners must develop second language literacy skills yet little is known about the ways in which they learn to read in their first languages and even less about how the specific nature and level of their first language literacy affects second language reading development This volume provides detailed descriptions of five typologically diverse languages and their writing systems and offers comparisons of learning to read experiences in these languages Specifically it addresses the requisite competencies in learning to read in each of the languages how language and writing system properties affect the way children learn to read and the extent and ways in which literacy learning experience in one language can play a role in subsequent reading development in another Both common and distinct aspects of literacy learning experiences across languages are identified thus establishing a basis for determining which skills are available for transfer in second language reading development Learning to Read Across Languages is intended for researchers and advanced students in the areas of second language learning psycholinguistics literacy bilingualism and cross linguistic issues in language processing

Learning to Read and Write Margaret Harris, Giyoo Hatano, 1999-05-27 For many years the development of theories about the way children learn to read and write was dominated by studies of English speaking populations As we have learned more about the way that children learn to read and write other scripts whether they have less regularity in their grapheme phoneme correspondences or do not make use of alphabetic symbols at all it has become clear that many of the difficulties that confront children learning to read and write English specifically are less evident or even non existent in other populations At the same time some aspects of learning to read and write are very similar across scripts The unique cross linguistic perspective offered in this book including chapters on Japanese Greek and the Scandinavian languages as well as English shows how the processes of learning to read and spell are affected by the characteristics of the writing system that children are learning to master Journal of Chinese Linguistics ,1992 陈国治

,2003 A Contrastive Study of Aspectuality in German, English, and Chinese Lihua Zhang,1995 This study systematically contrasts aspectuality in German English and Chinese by investigating a set of rich data from literary texts It uses a cognitive approach to examine aspectual semantics and relationships between meaning and form involving the expression and categorization of aspectual situations in three languages It elucidates language specific realizations of aspectual conceptualization in each of the three languages and reveals aspectually motivated regularities in translations
