Rabid Dogs In The East:

The African Wild Dog Joshua Ross Ginsberg, David Whyte Macdonald, IUCN/SSC Canid Specialist Group, 1997 Over the last 30 years the African wild dog population has declined dramatically Dogs have disappeared from 25 of the 39 countries where they were previously found and only 6 populations are believed to number more than 100 Today it is believed that only between 3 000 5 500 dogs remain in 600 1 000 packs with most to be found in eastern and southern Africa The dramatic reduction in their population is attributed to a number of factors including human population growth and activities deterioration of habitat and contact with domestic dogs and their diseases This Action Plan explores some of the reasons behind their disappearance and provides a number of proposed solutions split into 3 priority areas ranging from habitat management and conservation to monitoring domestic dogs

Fencing for Conservation Michael J. Somers, Matthew Hayward, 2011-11-23 The conflict between increasing human population and biodiversity conservation is one of the IUCN's key threatening processes Conservation planning has received a great deal of coverage and research as a way of conserving biodiversity yet while theoretically successful it has never been tested Simple lines on maps to illustrate conservation areas are unlikely to be successful in the light of human encroachment It may be that some form of overt display is necessary to ensure the protection of reserves This may be signage presence of guards rangers or physical fencing structures The need for some form of barrier goes beyond restricting human access The megafauna of Africa pose a genuine threat to human survival In southern Africa fences keep animals in and protect the abutting human population Elsewhere fencing is not considered important or viable Where poverty is rife it won't take much to tip the balance from beneficial conservation areas to troublesome repositories of crop raiders diseases and killers Conversely in New Zealand fences are used to keep animals out Introduced species have decimated New Zealand's endemic birds reptiles and invertebrates and several sites have been entirely encapsulated in mouse proof fencing to ensure their protection Australia faces the same problems as New Zealand however surrounds its national parks with cattle fences Foxes and cats are free to enter and leave at will resulting in rapid recolonisation following poisoning campaigns How long will these poison campaigns work before tolerance aversion or resistance evolves in the introduced predator populations

Rabid Dogs in the East, The Stenographer, 1893 Mad Dogs Don Finley, 1998 Chronicles the rabies outbreak in South Texas the politics of the response to it and the 1995-96 USDA program for dropping an experimental vaccine over nearly fifteen thousand square miles of brushland

A System of practical medicine v. 1, 1885, 1885 Towards the Elimination of Rabies in Eurasia Betty Dodet, European Union, 2008 This volume presents the proceedings of the second conference on rabies organized by the World Organisation for Animal Health in collaboration with the World Health Organization and the European Union in May 2007 Up to date information on rabies epidemiology in humans and animals throughout Europe The Middle East and Asia and the most recent data on rabies virus and its structure as well as the basic mechanisms of rabies infection are included here Experts in the field present their experience and opinions on the prevention and control of rabies in dogs wildlife including bats and the most recent developments in rabies prevention and management in humans Further presentations address advances in technology diagnosis and vaccine development To conclude resolutions and recommendations are given in English French and Russian for the elimination of rabies not only in Europe and Asia but also the rest of the world This book is highly valuable to regulatory veterinary services public health services medical and veterinary practitioners scientists and researchers interested in combating this neglected disease which kills more than 50 000 persons annually mainly children Rabies elimination is at hand through a One Health strategic collaboration between veterinary and human health authorities political will and community involvement and application of the knowledge gained from this volume
