

RACE

The background of the cover is a soft-focus photograph of a landscape. It features rolling green hills under a pale, hazy sky. In the lower-left foreground, there is a single, dark green tree with a rounded canopy. The overall color palette is dominated by various shades of green and yellow, creating a serene and somewhat ethereal atmosphere.

Race And Practice In Archaeological Interpretation:

Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2013-04-19 Scholars who investigate race a label based upon real or perceived physical differences realize that they face a formidable task The concept has been contested and condoned debated and denied throughout modern history Presented with the full understanding of the complexity of the issue Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation concentrates on the archaeological analysis of race and how race is determined in the archaeological record Most archaeologists even those dealing with recent history have usually avoided the subject of race yet Charles E Orser Jr contends that its study and its implications are extremely important for the science of archaeology Drawing upon his considerable experience as an archaeologist and using a combination of practice theory as interpreted by Pierre Bourdieu and spatial theory as presented by Henri Lefebvre Orser argues for an explicit archaeology of race and its interpretation The author reviews past archaeological usages of race including a case study from early nineteenth century Ireland and explores the way race was used to form ideas about the Mound Builders the Celts and Atlantis He concludes with a proposal that historical archaeology cast as modern world archaeology should take the lead in the archaeological analysis of race because its purview is the recent past that period during which our conceptions of race developed

Ethics in Archaeological Practice Sarah Kielt Costello, Sarah Lepinski, 2024-12-31 Ethics in Archaeological Practice explores urgent topics and issues in archaeology as currently practiced in the classroom the field the museum and the public sphere While addressed primarily to archaeologists working in western Asia the eastern Mediterranean and North Africa the volume raises contemporary ethical questions around race gender disability climate change and cultural heritage that are pressing and relevant to archaeology students and professionals worldwide The fifteen contributors offer fundamental case studies and practical guidance for best practices and models of high standards of ethical practice in professional conduct Together they offer new approaches to advocacy and the responsible stewardship of heritage sites collections and the environment These compelling and generative discussions make the case for a 21st century archaeology that is proactive and engaged with discourses addressing equity social justice anti colonialism and climate change

The Archaeology of Ethnicity Siân Jones, 2002-11-01 The question of ethnicity is highly controversial in contemporary archaeology Indigenous and nationalist claims to territory often rely on reconstructions of the past based on the traditional identification of cultures from archaeological remains Sian Jones responds to the need for a reassessment of the ways in which social groups are identified in the archaeological record with a comprehensive and critical synthesis of recent theories of ethnicity in the human sciences In doing so she argues for a fundamentally different view of ethnicity as a complex dynamic form of identification requiring radical changes in archaeological analysis and interpretation
