Dialectical Urbanism Andy Merrifield, 2002-02 Life in the city can be both liberating and oppressive The contemporary city is an arena in which new and unexpected personal identities and collective agencies are forged and at the same time the major focus of market forces intent on making all life a commodity This book explores both sides of the urban experience developing a perspective from which the contradictory nature of the politics of the city comes more clearly into view Dialectical Urbanism discusses a range of urban issues conflicts and struggles through detailed case studies set in Liverpool Baltimore New York and Los Angeles Issues which affect the quality of everyday life in the city gentrification and development affordable rents the accountability of local government the domination of the urban landscape by new corporate giants policing are located in the context of larger political and economic forces At the same time the narrative constantly returns to those moments in which city dwellers discover and develop their capacity to challenge larger forces and decide their own conditions of life becoming active citizens rather than the passive consumers Merrifield draws on a wide range of sources from interviews with activists and tenants fighting eviction to government and corporate reports and uncovers surprising connections for example between the rise of junk bonds in the 1980s and urban improvement schemes in a working class neighborhood in Baltimore This lively and many sided narrative is constantly informed by broader analyses and reflections on the city and engages with these analyses in turn It fuses scholarship and political engagement into a powerful defense of the possibilities of life in the metropolis today The Interplay of Opposites, A Dialectical Ontology, by Gustav E. Mueller Gustav Emil Müller, 1956 Internationales Jahrbuch für Religionssoziologie, 1968 Sociology of Education in Canada Lorna Erwin, David R. Culture and Power in the Classroom Antonia Darder, 1991 In this work Antonia Darder draws upon the writings of Brazilian philosopher Paulo Freire and American theorist Henry Giroux to provide a detailed look at the education of subordinate cultural groups in the United States and the impact of dominant cultural forces on the lives of students from disenfranchised communities Darder confronts the cultural values and practices that serve to marginalize black Latino Asian and other bicultural students and offers a set of theoretical principles from which to develop a critical practice of bicultural education By expanding the dialogue with respect to bicultural education Darder provides classroom teachers with a critical theoretical perspective by which they can evaluate their current practices with bicultural students The book introduces the principles of a culturally democratic vision of schooling that both challenges the pluralistic notions of multicultural approaches and also represents something of a political project dedicated to securing the societal participation of communities and groups that historically have been excluded from the mainstream of American life The work concludes with a practical study of bicultural education This unique work will be an important resource for teachers education students and educational researchers as well as a valuable addition to college and university libraries Mexican Women in the United States Magdalena Mora, Adelaida R.
